THE TRIBULATIONS OF RITTER, VICTIM OF IDLE CURIOSITY

District Attorney and County Court Meddle with His Private Affairs Most Annoyingly

SYMPATHY FOR SICK MAN

He Let Murphy Go and His Subsequent Experiences Have Been a Sad "Joy Ride"

What with the meddlesome red tape of the county court and the wriggling curiosity of the district attorney, the remaining days of George Ritter's term as sheriff of La Crosse county are calculated to make his heart sing the joys of those halcyon times that in his memory hold a place so tender—bridge-tender and bartender.

Neither less mysterious nor less annoying than the curiosity of District Attorney Schlabach as to why the sheriff made an automobile agency of a clever gentleman who left the county jail before the period of his official welcome had elapsed, was the objection of Judge Brindley to the surrender of another gentleman of leisure to a Michigan officer without the formality of examination of his credentials by the court, and to cap these bits of pother there was the unfortunate jail delivery that got too much publicity and the fortunate near-jail delivery that got no publicity. But no doubt as Sheriff Ritter flashes about in his ancient and honorable Kisselcar he can afford to be tolerant of such petty meddlesomeness.

Slightly Unconventional

Indeed, the meddling of the court has proceeded to the point at which Judge Brindley expects a report from the district attorney touching the release of W. H. Murphy, short change artist, before the expiration of his term, and Mr. Schlabach actually has had the impudence to make inquiries as to why the sheriff now drives the Kisselcar which the sheriff alleges was formerly owned by Mr. Murphy. It is said the sheriff feels these fellow officials have a right to ask about Murphy's release, but he regards their curiosity concerning his private business transactions as to say the least impertinent.

Murphy Was Ill

Murphy was sent up for sixty days on June 3. Before the expiration of his term the sheriff reported to the district attorney that Murphy was ill and should be released. Mr. Schlabach says he did not concur, but the sheriff says he understood Mr. Schlabach to approve the suggestion. In any event, Mr. Ritter released Murphy during the week of July 10. The county judge and the district attorney were considerably surprised and somewhat provoked, as there were other charges pending against Murphy.

However, Mr. Ritter seems to have had the welfare of Murphy's victims at heart, for sometime after Murphy's departure Ritter paid over to Mr. Schlabach a sum aggregating $50, by personal check. This was the amount out of which Murphy had mulcted La Crosse people, and in making restitution, Mr. Schlabach says, Ritter explained that he had found the money in Murphy's pockets.

More Impertinence

But instead of being duly grateful for this considerate treatment on the part of the sheriff, Mr. Schlabach showed not the slightest delicacy about butting into Mr. Ritter's purely personal affairs. He seemed to think it was the public's business to know why Mr. Ritter had acquired a Kisselcar that had been Murphy's property, just as if Mr. Murphy had no right to give or sell Mr. Ritter an automobile, if he wanted to. Whether Mr. Ritter's sense of humor will buoy him over the tide of distressful inquisitiveness remains to be seen, but meanwhile Judge Brindley is awaiting Mr. Schlabach's report.

Another Fuss

Thursday morning wormwood was added to the gall of Sheriff Ritter's experiences when Judge Brindley admonished him that in turning one John Flipps over to a person alleging himself to be a Michigan officer of the Iona reformatory, without permitting the court to pass upon that officer's credentials, he had been indiscrete. Flipps had been arrested here and was wanted in Michigan.

Jail Birds Caught

It developed in casual conversation with Sheriff Ritter today that following the recent jail delivery, a similar attempt had been frustrated. The sheriff found two bars cut, and took two saws away from inmates the names of whom he did not divulge.

The sheriff refused to give any further information concerning the attempted jail delivery. He exhibited the saws to newspaper men but would not give the names of the prisoners from whom they were taken. He also refused to tell when a banquet for local factory foremen and superintendents, at which it will be proposed to turn the Round Table over to the Chamber of Commerce. A

Unity of Allies Insures Peace Briand Declares

BY HENRY WOOD

(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

PARIS, Sept. 14.—A lasting and durable peace, imposed by an allied victory, has been insured by the establishment of complete unity among the allies which has put the Teutonic powers entirely on the defensive, Premier Briand declared Thursday in reviewing before the chamber of deputies war developments since the last session.

"The intervention of Rumania and Italy's declaration of war against Germany have completed the solidarity of action of the allies," said the French prime minister. "It has completely reduced the central empires to the defensive and has deprived them of all initiative in military operations.

"The allies have intervened in Greece for the double purpose of protecting their expeditionary corps and conserving Greece's own interests. They will not permit the enemy in Greece to interfere with these ends.

"The unity now fully established will insure a lasting and durable peace being imposed by an allied victory."

LT. M'DONALD IS NEW CAPTAIN OF CENTRAL STATION

Member Since Organization of Paid Fire Department Succeeds to New Chief's Place

PIPEMAN IS LIEUTENANT

Frank Rogge's Eleven Years of Service Are Rewarded by Promotion

John A. McDonald, for twelve years lieutenant at central fire station, will command Company No. 1 as captain on Friday morning, when he will return from a day's lay-off. Frank Rogge, a member of the central company for eleven years as pipeman, becomes lieutenant on Friday, succeeding McDonald.

Both appointments, made by Fire Chief F. C. McGlachlin, were confirmed by the fire and police commission at a meeting on Wednesday night.

McDonald became a member of the fire department in 1896, when a paid fire company was instituted in La Crosse. His services won for him the office of lieutenant in 1904. With the recent death of Chief Nathan Bradfield, and the appointment of McGlachlin as chief, the captainship at the central station was offered captains of other local companies. They declined, it is understood, in favor of McDonald.

Roggs entered the service in 1905. When McDonald learned of his appointment early on Thursday morning, he celebrated by taking a day's leave to go down river on a fishing expedition in his motorboat.

The board adopted resolutions thanking L. C. Colman, who recently resigned after years of service on the commission. The resolutions follow:

"Whereas, Lucius C. Colman, a member and secretary of the police and fire commission of the city of La Crosse, has resigned his position as member and as secretary of said commission; and

"Whereas, Mr. Colman has given honorable and faithful service to the board of police and fire commission and to the citizens of La Crosse for many years and performed his duties at all times fairly and impartially;

"Therefore be it resolved, that the board of police and fire commission express their heartfelt thanks to Mr. Colman for the honorable and conscientious services performed for said board and for the citizens of La Crosse; and

"Be it further resolved, that the members of the board also voice the feelings and sentiments also voice the zens of La Crosse and thank Mr. Colman on their behalf for the services he has rendered to the public; and

"Be it further resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of the board, a copy sent to Mr. Colman and a copy to each of the newspapers in the city of La Crosse."

GONZALES SAYS VILLA IS IN SANTA CLARA

EL PASO, Texas, Sept. 14.—Despite General Pershing's dispatches to General Funston that Pancho Villa's northward progress could not be confirmed, General Gonzales, Carranzista commander at Juarez, on Thursday announced officially that Villa is still in the Santa Clara region, where he has been seen personally by peons, but is showing no disposition to fight.

A small band of Villistas fought for four hours Wednesday in the Laguna district with de facto troops, according to Gonzales. The bandits fled, leaving seven dead on the field.

ALLIED DRIVE IN MACEDONIA HALTED IS GERMAN CLAIM

Berlin Reports British Repulsed and in Retreat; Say French and Serbs Have Failed

PARIS CONTRADICTORY

Serbians Reported Carrying Bulgar Trenches in Their Advance West of the Vardar

BERLIN, via Wireless to Sayville, L. I., Sept. 14—The Fourth Greek army corps, with headquarters at the port of Vavala, has been placed in the hands of the Germans by its commander and the troops will be transported to Germany, it was officially announced here Thursday.

The Greek troops will be permitted to retain their arms and equipment and will retain their standing as neutrals. They will enjoy German hospitality until Greek soil is freed of allied invaders.

BERLIN, Sept. 14.—The new allied offensive in Macedonia has been completely halted, according to Sofia dispatches Thursday.

Large British forces that attempted to advance in the region of Seres were repulsed, suffering heavy losses. The British were forces to relinquish ground temporarily occupied and are now in retreat.

Repeated attacks by French and Italian troops have been easily repulsed. The Serbians on the Bulgarian right wing after a few temporary successes have been pushed back to their former positions, being unable to withstand Bulgarian counter attacks.

The operations in southeastern Rumania under command of Field Marshal Mackensen are progressing satisfactorily.

The British official press representative at Salonika cabled early es. eTh British were forced to recrossed the Strumna in an advance early this week have been withdrawn after inflicting heavy casualties on the Bulgars. The reason for the British retirement was not given.

Say Serbs Take Trenches

PARIS, Sept. 14.—Continuing their advance west of the Vardar the Serbians carried Bulgarian trenches between Kovil and Vetrenik, making progress also in the direction of Kaitmatchalon, it was officially announced Thursday.

Northwest of Ostrovo lake the Serbs carried a height west of Hill 1500 after violent fighting, the advance guard reaching Solkes Malkanidy. The Bulgarians suffered heavily.

On the allies' right wing, from the Vardar to the Strumna, intermittent cannonading continued Wednesday, but there were no infantry actions except patrol engagements.

Plan Balkan Offensive?

ROME, Sept. 14.—A great Balkan offensive by the Teutonic powers is being planned at the conference now going on at the kaiser's headquarters, according to reports reaching here.

The tentative plans call for Germany sending 200,000 and Austria 100,000 men to the Balkans, it is said.

Deadlock in East

LONDON, Sept. 14.—The deadlock on the Russian front and southeastern Rumania continues. The Russian war office Thursday announced the repulse of German-Bulgar attacks east of the Rumanian fortress of Silistria.

Confirm Kavala Occupied

LONDON, Sept. 14.—The German war office Thursday officially confirmed reports that the Bulgarians have occupied the Greek port of Kavala and announced that the German-Bulgar campaign in southeastern Rumania is progressing. The repulse of allied attacks at several points on the Macedonian frontier was announced at Berlin.

The fact that Berlin saw fit to announce the occupation of Kavala was interpreted here as meaning that the Germans no longer hope to keep Greece out of the war. The German minister at Athens is reported to have assured King Constantine several weeks ago that Kavala would not be occupied by the Bulgars, so long as Greece continued neutral.

Repeat Varna Evacuated

LONDON, Sept. 14.—A wireless dispatch from Rome Thursday repeated the report that the Bulgarians have evacuated the Black sea port of Varna and added that the Russians have cleared the port of enemy submarines and torpedo boats.

A fierce battle is going on along the whole Serbian-Bulgar front in northwestern Greece, said a telegram received by the Serbian legation on Thursday. The Serbians have occupied the front line of Bulgarian trenches.

LORIMER DEFEATED; DUNNE AND LOWDEN LEAD FOR GOVENOR

James R. Mann Swamps His Preacher Adversary with a Plurality of 15,000

LANDSLIDE FOR DUNNE

Practically Entire State House Ticket Swept to Victory; McCormick Leads for Congressman-at-large

CHICAGO, Sept. 14. — Former United States Senator William Lorimer has fallen down in his "come back" race for congress, incomplete returns early Thursday from Wednesday's state primaries showing he has lost to Arthur W. Fulton in the republican congressional race in the Sixth district by about a thousand votes.

"I admit defeat. It is the fortunes of the game," said Lorimer. "I have nothing to say, nothing to charge. I only wish that I had won."

Mann Easy Victor

James R. Mann, republican leader in the national house, swamped his preacher opponent, Rev. M. P. Boynton, in the Second congressional district fight by a plurality of about fifteen thousand. In the gubernatorial race Governor Dunne, democrat, and Col. Frank R. Lowdon, republican, were easy winners.

Late returns indicate that Dunne's plurality throughout the state will be around 90,000. He defeated William Brinton, of Dixon, the Roger Sullivan entry. Dunne's landslide vote has swept the entire state house ticket to victory with possible exception of Lieut. Gov. Barratt O'Hara, who is running behind Henry W. Huttmann, the Sullivan candidate for lieutenant governor, at an estimated plurality of 100,000. Morton Hull opposed Lowdon.

Medill McCormick and B. M. Chipperfield, republicans for congressmen-at-large, are leading over their opponents with McCormick picked to win by a plurality of fifty thousand. Chipperfield is running a neck and neck race with former United States Senator William E. Mason.

William E. Williams and Joseph O. Kostner were the democratic winners for congressmen-at-large nominations.

Vote 640,000

Rough estimates of the total vote in Illinois indicates that more than 640,000 ballots were cast, 400,000 of which were by republicans and 240,000 by democrats. Approximately 38,000 women cast votes in the primaries. The reason for the light vote was because women were allowed to vote mostly for local offices only.

Last returns indicate that Dunne's state vote will be about 153,000 and Lowdon's 250,000.

FAIR HEADS LOOK FOR RECORD ATTENDANCE

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 14.—Officials looked for a record breaking day at the state fair at noon Thursday when the attendance figures reached 16,087. Most of the business houses in Milwaukee closed in the afternoon in order to give their employes a chance to inspect the exhibits. It is estimated that the attendance must reach 50,000 in order to make the fair a financial success.

Taft And Root To Join Hughes Stumping Staff

BY PERCY ARNOLD

(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—Former President William Howard Taft will take the stump for a series of speeches in support of Charles E. Hughes in October.

The speakers' bureau at republican headquarters is now working out Taft's itinerary, it was announced Thursday. It was believed the former president will spend some time in Ohio.

Former Senator Elihu Root also will join the Hughes speaking forces in October. It was announced that Root will make a swing through New York state.

ROUND TABLE MAY BECOME BUREAU OF NEW CHAMBER

Plan on Foot to Turn Safety Organization Over to the Commercial Organization

The La Crosse Safety Round Table, instituted by the old Manufacturers' and Jobbers' association; now a part of the new Chamber of Commerce, may be made a bureau of that organization, it became known on Thursday.

L. W. Silberschmidt, chairman of the organization, and J. M. Storkerson, secretary, are making plans for the attempt to break jail was made.

"There were too many attempts to get out of jail," Sheriff Ritter said. "There were too many stories being printed."

The two saws now in possession of the sheriff were made in the jail. They are pieces of steel, evidently taken from the prisoners' shoes. Sharp teeth were cut in them with the small piece of file. Sheriff Ritter is of the opinion that when he took the first piece of file from prisoners, who shortly before had attempted to cut their way to freedom, they had broken their file in half, hiding one piece.

And so, even though he had the patience of Job, Mr. Ritter could not fail to find his job a trial and a pestilence, and no doubt he awaits the announcement of his successor's election as Uncle Tom would have waited the emancipation proclamation.

HUGHES SECOND TOUR PLANS ANNOUNCED

CHICAGO, Sept. 14.—Frank H. Hitchcock of the national republican advisory committee reached here Thursday. Other members will arrive Monday for a conference.

Hitchcock announced plans for Governor Hughes' second western tour. The candidate will occupy a special train. Leaving New York the morning of September 18 he will reach Chicago at 4 a. m. September 19. Half an hour later he will go to Peoria. He will leave Springfield, Ill., the night of September 19, reaching Chicago early September 20. Two hours later he will go to Milwaukee.

Hughes will speak in Sheboygan at 9 a. m.; in Manitowoc at 9:45; Green Bay 11 a. m. to 1 p. m.; Appleton 2 p. m.; Oshkosh 2:45; Fond du Lac 4 p. m., and at Milwaukee in the evening.

At Green Bay and Milwaukee Hughes will make set speeches in a hall.

CALEDONIA MAN HELD FOR THEFT FROM AGED UNCLE

Septagenarian Tells the Police Nephew Was Sleeping with Him when Roll Disappeared

FOUND HIS PLACE EMPTY

Police Arrest A. B. Molitor at Station with $1,000 and Railroad Tickets in His Possession

A bent old man with a shaggy white beard sat humped over in a chair at Central police station Thursday morning. His head was bowed on his chest, and he sat as immovable as a statue. The desk sergeant occasionally spoke to him, softly, as to a child. When he raised his head to answer his faded blue eyes showed red-rimmed with the scant tears of age.

The patriarch was John Beck, formerly of Tipton, Kas., a resident of La Crosse for about a month. He is nearly eighty years old. He was waiting to appear against his nephew, A. B. Molitor of Caledonia, Minn., held in connection with the theft of $1,000 in big bills belong to Beck.

"Yes, my nephew," the aged man answered a query of a reporter. He straightened in his chair and brought his silver headed cane down with a thump.. "My nephew! That is worse than the money."

His fit of anger ended as suddenly as it began, and the old man fell back into his musing attitude.

According to the story Beck told the police, his nephew, who is proprietor of a hotel in Caledonia, came to visit him. He slept with the aged man Wednesday evening. When they were preparing to retire, Beck took three packages of large bills from his wallet. The sum they comprised was $1,500, divided into three packages of $500 each. He showed them to Molitor, and then stowed them away for the night. Two of the packages he put under the mattress. The third he tucked inside his nightshirt.

At an early hour Thursday morning the aged man awoke to find his bed-fellow's place empty. He looked for the bills under the mattress. Both packages were gone. He telephoned the police.

Molitor was arrested in the Milwaukee railroad station at 6:15. He had two tickets to Minneapolis and two $500 packages of big currency.

ORPET PROSECUTORS LOSE

WAUKEGAN, Ill., Sept. 14.—State's Attorney Ralph J. Dady of Lake county, who gained fame in his prosecution of Will Orpet, Wisconsin university student, for the murder of Marion Lambert, has apparently been defeated for the republican nomination. David R. Joslyn, who acted as special prosecutor in the Orpit case, likewise was defeated for the nomination in Henry county.

GERMANS DIVERT MORE FORCES FROM VERDUN TO SOMME

French Report Fresh Division of Teutons Repulsed on the Drive on Hill 76

PERONNE BEING RINGED

French Surround City on Three Sides and Supply Movements Are Threatened

PARIS, Sept. 14.—The Germans have shifted more troops from Verdun to the Somme front in an effort to check General Foch's forces closing in upon Peronne.

The war office announced Thursday that Wednesday's ineffective counter attack against the southern extremity of Hill 76, northwest of Peronne, was led by a fresh German division hastily transferred from Verdun. The Germans made several more attacks at the some point Wednesday night but were completely repulsed.

South of the Somme, the Germans attacked at several different points but were repulsed. West of Chaulnes one German company was caught under French fire and practically annihiated.

On the northeastern front of Verdun, the French easily repulsed several attacks against the new French positions on the Vaux Chapitre front.

Ring Around Peronne

French artillery has drawn a ring of fire three-quarters of the way around Peronne, which is almost entirely cut off from communication with the rest of the German front.

Dispatches from the Somme battle field Thursday said the great eastward push of General Foch's men in the last forty-eight hours have placed all roads from Peronne within range of French guns. On three sides the French have surrounded the city with incessant streams of shell fire. Supplies can be brought into the city only under cover of night along the roads entering from the east.

British Envelop Combles

LONDON, Sept. 14.—The British have joined with the French in the new eastward drive to squeeze the Germans out of Combles and Peronne and made progress Wednesday night north of Ginchy.

The British gain, officially reported by General Haig, draws a noose tighter around Combles, whose outskirts are now held by the French. On the eastern side of Combles, the French have pushed forward in this week's fighting until the town is about two-thirds surrounded.

The Germans are counter attacking desperately to save Peronne. The German war office announced Thursday afternoon that the Teuton counter attacks have met with some success and that all Anglo-French attacks Wednesday night were repulsed.

Berlin Says Attacks Repulsed

BERLIN, Sept. 14. — German troops gained some ground in counter attacks on the Somme front on Wednesday night, it was officially announced Thursday. British and French attacks between Ginchy and the Somme were repulsed, the enemy suffering heavily.

The chamber passed the new war loan asked by the government without a dissenting vote, 484 members voting their approval.

MONETT AND TAYLOR MUST STAND TRIAL

Taylor, former president of Labor's National Peace council, indicted with Congressman Frank Buchanan and others on charges of conspiring to foment strikes in munition plants in an effort to stop shipments of munitions to the allies. Monett and Taylor maintained the proceedings of the grand jury which indicted them irregular and asked that the charges be dismissed. They must now stand trial along with other defendants.

The Socialist Candidate For President SAYS:—

BY ALLAN L. BENSON
(Socialist Candidate for President.)

Do you know that compulsory military service is already the law in the state of New York?

Do you know that the military training of school children is also the law in the state of New York?

Do you know that those laws were enacted without warning during the last hours of the legislative session last spring?

Do you know that congress passed and the president, on June 3, 1916, signed a bill under the terms of which the president, in the event of trouble, has the power, without further legislation, to draft citizens into the army?

* * * *

If you do not know these things, let me tell you that they are facts. I am a citizen of the state of New York and when school begins this fall, my children, like all others in the state of New York, will have militarism thrust upon them. I know whereof I speak.

The New York military laws are a menace to every resident of the United States. They are signs of the times. When they were enacted last spring, it was evidently the intention of the great capitalists who rule this country to introduce compulsory service into the nation a little at a time through the states.

Before they had gone far, they became bolder. The Hay-Chamberlain army re-organization bill was pending in congress. The bill, as it passed both houses provided that whenever the Federalized National guard should be called into service, the president should have the power to "call" enough citizens to recruit a reserve battalion for every battalion sent away.

This bill, like a good many others, was finally submitted to a conference committee representing the two houses of congress.

The conference committee changed the word "call" to "draft." The president was given power to draft enough citizens to recruit new battalions.

Dozens of members of congress who voted to make the bill a law said they did not know the change had been made.

* * * *

But the change was made. It was made by seven men. Or, at any rate, seven men constituted the committee in which the change was made. These seven men are Senators Chamberlain of Oregon, Beckham of Kentucky, Broussard of Louisiana, Du Pont of Delaware and Representatives Hay of Virginia, Dent of Alabama and Kahn of California.

The change they make appears in section 79 of the Hay-Chamberlain army re-organization bill.

Gentlemen tell us that militarism has not raised its ugly head in America.

What do these gentlemen mean? What, in their opinion is militarism?

* * * *

Under the prodding of the president, congress has just made the greatest military appropriations that were ever made by any nation in time of peace. If the appropriation for the fiscal year that will end June 30 next of $662,476,512 be not an indication of militarism, then the world would do well to get a new definition of militarism.

If it be not militarism for the governor of the state of New York to have the arbitrary power to draft every able-bodied male citizen into the National guard, then there is no such thing as militarism.

What is it but militarism when the president, under a new law made last summer, also has the power to draft national guards into the federal army?

What is it but militarism when the school children of the greatest state in the union have military training thrust upon them in the schools?

Need anyone doubt that the great capitalists will not stop with the school children of the state of New York? They certainly will not stop unless the people stop them.

* * * *

Call it by whatever gentle name you may choose—how do you like the idea of the president having the arbitrary power to hurl you into the army to steal northern Mexico for covetous American capitalists? Or to shoot down American workingmen, whose only offense might be that they had struck to get high enough wages to pay the high cost of living?

The socialist party is the only party that protests against the New York draft law, the national draft law and these huge military appropriations. We know perfectly well why capitalists want these laws. We know they want a great navy to hold the foreign trade that they got from Europe as a result of the war, and which Europe, as soon as the war is ended, will try to get back. Do you want to go to war to hold Mr. Rockefeller's foreign trade? Did you ever hear of a people whom foreign trade made rich? England has the greatest foreign trade in the world, but in no civilized nation has poverty reached lower depths than it has in England. English capitalists are very rich, but English workingmen are very poor.

* * * *

We know the American capitalists want a big army to intimidate and, if necessary attack American workers who object to working for a bare living.

We know why militarism is being thrust upon us. We are deeply distressed that no other political party opposes it. We know of nothing that will halt it except a tremendous vote for the socialist party this fall. The American people can stop militarism if they will but speak. The socialist party is the only political organization through which they can speak.

If you believe I have exaggerated the gravity of the situation, study the figures in the following table. Note how small were Germany's military appropriations the year before the war in comparison with the enormous appropriations that the Wilson administration has thrust uon us.

* * * *

Bear in mind that the only republican criticism of these appropriations is that they are too small.

Speak now with your ballot, or forever after hold your peace!

Save the Babies.

INFANT MORTALITY is something frightful. We can hardly realize that of all the children born in civilized countries, twenty-two per cent., or nearly one-quarter, die before they reach one year; thirty-seven per cent., or more than one-third, before they are five, and one-half before they are fifteen!

We do not hesitate to say that a timely use of Castoria would save a majority of these precious lives. Neither do we hesitate to say that many of these infantile deaths are occasioned by the use of narcotic preparations. Drops, tinctures and soothing syrups sold for children's complaints contain more or less opium or morphine. They are, in considerable quantities, deadly poisons. In any quantity, they stupefy, retard circulation and lead to congestions, sickness, death. Castoria operates exactly the reverse, but you must see that it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. Castoria causes the blood to circulate properly, opens the pores of the skin and allays fever.

Genuine Castoria always bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

HONEYMOON IN CANOE

SPOONER, Wis., Sept. 14.—Mr. and Mrs. Noel G. Monroe of Spooner, spent their honeymoon canoeing down the St. Croix river.

Hello, John!

Yes, I'm feeling fine—and you say looking younger, too? That is just what I called you up for. When I met you at the church dinner last night I was amazed to see how old you are looking. I believe it's because your hair is so thin and gray. You must bring back your youngness by restoring the color to your hair as I did. Dye it? Never! That's only temporary and eventually kills all the life in the hair. Go to the drug store and get a bottle of Dr. Cunningham's SAVEITT. Use it and you'll be surprised how quickly the color and life will return because Saveitt stimulates the scalp and hair glands to natural action. And it stopped dandruff. You should see all the new hair I am getting, too; you never saw such a wonderful preparation.

Saveitt will save your job for you, John, because the house doesn't like old men. You get Saveitt and you'll thank me for the tip. All right, good bye—Oh! Say! The only place in town where you can get Saveitt is

VERNON COUNTY FAIR OPENS IN WHIRL AT VIROQUA

Exhibits Are Largest in Years and "Day and Night" Features Promise Unusual Crowds in Attendance

VIROQUA, Wis. — (Special.) — With a whirl of activity not seen here for years the Vernon county day and night fair opened here Wednesday. Every department of the entire exposition is filled with a large number of exhibits. The cattle exhibits of Hoisteins, Jerseys, Guernseys and Herefords are unusually large. The poultry exhibit is probably the largest ever seen here.

The fruit and vegetable departments are making an extraordinary showing in spite of the dry weather and the early date of the fair.

Free attractions secured by the fair association are the best ever seen here. La Farge and Gays Mills baseball teams will cross bats at the fair grounds diamond Saturday. Viola and Viroqua will also contest for honors.

The Viroqua banks are giving two loving cups to the winner of a purebred corn contest.

Very Often True

The former big league baseball manager, who had been canned because the team finished last, as usual, was taking a civil service examination in order to secure a political job. He was amazed at the list of fool questions on the examination paper. He didn't know the distance from the earth to the moon, so he passed that one up. And he could not describe a syzygy, so he called that test a loser. But the third question interested him. It said:

"Name the largest bone in the human frame."

And with a grin of confidence the former manager wrote this answer:

"The head."

Rheumatism

A Home Cure Given by One Who Had It

In the spring of 1893 I was attacked by Muscular and Inflammatory Rheumatism. I suffered as only those who have it know, for over three years. I tried remedy after remedy, and doctor after doctor, but such relief as I received was only temporary. Finally, I found a remedy that cured me completely, and it has never returned. I have given it to a number who were terribly afflicted and even bedridden with Rheumatism, and it effected a cure in every case.

I want every sufferer from any form of rheumatic trouble to try this marvelous healing power. Don't send a cent; simply mail your name and address and I will send it free to try. After you have used it and it has proven itself to be that long-looked-for means of curing your Rheumatism, you may send the price of it, one dollar, but, understand, I do not want your money unless you are perfectly satisfied to send it. Isn't that fair? Why suffer any longer when positive relief is thus offered you free? Don't delay. Write today.

IF BACK HURTS BEGIN ON SALTS

Flush your Kidneys occasionally if you eat meat regularly.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which clogs the kidney pores so they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood, then you get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which all regular meat eaters should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.

RAILROADS FIGHT FOREST FIRES

A co-operation arrangement has been made between a northwestern railroad and the supervisor of the national forest in Montana, by which both organizations will work together to prevent forest fires. The railroad company has just created a new officer called railroad fire inspector, who travels on the road noting fire risk conditions. A supply of large form cards is carried on every engine. The engineer who sights a fire fills out one of these cards giving its location and extent as nearly as possible. He tosses the card to the first crew of section hands the train passes and these hands immediately start out to fight the fire. Special fire fighting tools have been furnished the section hands.

PICK NEW MUSIC DIRECTOR

STEVENS POINT, Wis., Sept. 14.—Mrs. Lucile Chapman Pierce of Fort Atkinson, a graduate of the Northwestern School of Music, has been elected director of music in the city school.

OF PARKS AND FACTORIES

In that great address in which Secretary Trefz, of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, gave the first vital force to the then organizing Chamber of Commerce of La Crosse, the speaker dignified public parks with civic value of an economic as well as an aesthetic nature. His message told us that these things which make a city livable and lovable react to the commercial and industrial advantage of the community by bringing to it industries and enterprises manned by people who love to live.

An employe of The Tribune was a passenger on the steamer "Quincy" upon the occasion of its last voyage up the Mississippi. The passenger list contained the names of people from many states who had traveled from St. Louis and concluded their water journey at St. Paul. To our representative comments upon the La Crosse water front and Riverside and Pettibone parks were vastly interesting. Praise of these things was the main burden of conversation not only while the boat lay in the harbor but during its progress up the river. The talk developed the topic from many angles. That ours is the most beautiful waterfront from St. Louis to St. Paul all agreed, and many indulged in philosophizing upon the value of this enterprise to a wide-awake city, along commercial and industrial lines. There was also comment upon our new levee warehouse, which was compared with situations in many river towns where freight littered the water side.

No doubt the people of La Crosse have some impression of the more substantial values that attach to the work of our park commission, but it is doubtful if the keenest of us realize its far-reaching effects as an advertisement for the city of La Crosse. As this city grows and expands we shall be able to trace many reasons for the improvement, but no approximation of the causes of growth which does not include such enterprises as our public park building will be complete or just.

THE PRESIDENTIAL POSSIBILITIES

Thus far there has not been that crystallization of thought that will be necessary before any of the issues of the presidential campaign may be termed paramount. The republican debate has had a tendency to scatter, while that of the democrats is not yet under way. It seems probable, if the trend of thought already apparent in Wisconsin prevails in other states, that the republican campaign will swerve from its concentration on President Wilson's European policy to more debatable grounds. The Mexican situation is open to argument, and the economic side of the democratic administration is susceptible of capitalization as a proper campaign feature for the republicans.

The importance of the Maine election to the republicans is less the significance of their majority there than the demonstration that in returning to the old parties the progressives have chosen the republican party in the ratio of about three to one. Probably that is about the proportion in which the progressive organization drew from the old parties in the first place, so it may be presumed that the republican strength of 1908 has approximately been recovered.

Since the republican party normally is numerically the stronger, now that it is again intact the presumption of a republican victory may be defended. Whether that victory shall be attained depends largely on the tactics employed in the campaign. If the republicans shall abandon a course in relation to the fairly successful European policy of President Wilson that has been calculated to drive straight-thinking Americans to the Wilson standard, and shall now center their efforts upon a constructive program relating to the domestic phases of government, they should be able to take advantage of their opportunity for a normal republican vote. But if they blindly continue a policy which many people interpret as assailing America over the president's shoulder, democratic success is not entirely improbable.

THE FIGHT FOR GOVERNOR

The outcome of the campaign in which Governor Emanuel L. Philipp and Burt Williams are contending for the governorship of Wisconsin probably depends largely upon the outcome of the presidential election in this state. Should Mr. Hughes' victory be overwhelming, Governor Philipp will undoubtedly be elected by a safe majority, but should Wilson win, or should the presidential election be close, Williams might have a chance.

Perhaps Mr. Williams' lifelong friendship for Senator La Follette may tend to weaken him in his own party, the reactionary element of which opposed his nomination for that reason. But in a state where independent voting is liberally indulged in the staunch progressive record of Mr. Williams will bring him the votes of many republicans who feel that he more nearly represents their views than does the present governor. In an off year this vote might have telling effect upon the outcome; but in a presidential year it can hardly affect the result excepting in case of an unusually strong run by the democratic presidential nominee.

NO SCALPS ON THE BACK FENCE

With the passing of the primaries it is gratifying to note that the election period in this community is moving forward without the rekindling of bitter animosities that at times have estranged men who in other fields than politics dwell in more or less pleasant accord. This is not due to a lessening of the intensity with which political convictions are held, but rather to processes of time. The older men still in political life are coming to take a more impersonal view of public problems, while the younger generation whose influence is being infused into the situation seem characteristically less intense and more philosophical. Truly, it is a happy development, for it adds to the pleasure of living without detracting from the serious consideration which the people of a republic must give to its governmental affairs.

Quips and Cranks and Wanton Wiles

L. C. Sez:
Gossip is the thief of time.

Out of the Mouths of Kids

"I never saw a more industrious woman that that Mrs. Crum," the teacher remarked before the Kentucky mountain boys and girls gathered at the school dinner table. "Why even when I meet her on the road she pulls her yarn and needles out of her pocket and goes to knitting."

Teacher's manifestation of surprise brought forth a volley of ejaculations from the children, each of whom had mother, aunt or cousin who was equally ardent at wool working.

"Oh," exclaimed one little fellow, reaching the climax of the discussion. "I had a grandmother who was the knittinest woman I ever knowed. She used to take her knitting to bed with her and every few minutes she woked up and throwed out a pair o' socks!"

Exceptional

"That man is the most remarkable golf player I know of."

"An expert?"

"I don't know. He can play the game day after day without talking about it the entire evening."—Washington Star.

Little Leaks

"Billboard" declares "Volumes would inadequately describe her wonderful portrayal of the woman." We should say that the writer has quite a bad case.

The only time when a woman's of age is when she's voting—and then we're only taking it for granted.

At first 90 were reported killed when the Quebec bridge collapsed. Now the report is ten. Imagination is a wonderful thing!

We're not worrying so much about the trouble of signing twenty checks as we are about getting the twenty checks to sign.

If some Chicago women, to get the privelege to vote, would have to give their ages, they'd prefer to drop the vote.

"The new Pallas-Paramount photoplay 'Davy Crockett' contains these scenes that were taken in the forest during a blizzard and the depth of the snow and ice-covered trees show a Southern California that few people know about."

Maybe that's because no one has seen that spot in California.

From Experience

The young woman in the stern of the little boat had whispered "Yes."

"But stay where you are Jack," she added hastily. "If you try to kiss me you'll upset the boat."

"How do you know?" hoarsely demanded Jack, a horrible suspicion already taking possession of him.

THE TRIBUNE'S DAILY TRAVELETTE

(By Niksab)

SHIRAZ

Shiras is a very human town. For more centuries than are worth the trouble of counting, it has enjoyed a reputation through the near east as a seat of knowledge and letters. Natives modestly speak of their town as the "adobe of wisdom." And they are very conscious of their reputation, and as proud as a kitten with a blue ribbon around its neck. The average Shirazi is likely to be a bit uppish and condescending to common humanity, but his attitude is nice and understandable, and quite the thing for a man who lives in a town like Shiraz. If there weren't just a trace of the bromide about such a simile, you might call Shiraz the Persian Boston and not be far off.

Moreover, Shiraz is beautiful. There is no sight in all the east to excel the old city as she lies in the green of the trees and the purple of the mountains, the bulbous domes of her mossues giving the distant bulk of her a quaint, floating quality, as though the walls and house were hovering just above the earth. One may set down adjectives of form and color backed by all the superlative modifiers, but a block of cold type can not do more than list things statistic-wise. There is a gate near Shiraz though called the "Great is Allah!" gate because that is what travelers always say when they stand there and look at the city; and that little phrase is not a bad description of Shiraz in the distance.

Like everything from a buffalo nickel to a campaign argument however, this tale of the glories of Shiraz has its other side. You can not camp in the country and admire indefinitely; and Shiraz at hand-grips shows herself in a state of some municipal disrepair. There is a noble old bridge leading into the heart of the town which the county commissioners ought to look to, and a statue of Darius the Great stands chipped and awry like an empty bottle on an ash heap. The weather is exceedingly hot for half the year, and fevers are prone to carry off native and visitor with great suddenness. For all that, the visitor likes Shiraz. He lists the unpleasant details in no spirit of malicious fault-finding, but in the hope that the board of aldermen will sit up and take notice.

The TRIBUNE'S Daily Short Story

THE MATCHMAKER

BY SUSAN E. CLAGETT

(Copyright, 1916, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

The moon was at its full and the old-fashioned garden at Ellerslie was very beautiful this late September night. Great clumps of dahlias and varied colored chrysanthemums made spots of color in the dim light, and the hum of voices and gay laughter came from all directions.

The Shelleys were entertaining the young people of the neighborhood. It was not a dance, merely a supper party and after that the wonderful garden and the tree shadows and the scent of late roses and sentiment.

And it was sentiment indeed. Some of it was very earnest. A good deal of it was play, but so well played that more frequently than not it ended in a game of cross purposes that threatened serious consequences.

It was in such a play that Warren Addison and Nell Iglehart were the principal actors. The other boy and girl were only accessories. They did not know it. If it had been suggested to them that there was lack of earnestness in either of their companions, they would not have believed it. To all appearances, Nell and Warren were absorbed in the give and take that passed for conversation, but in reality they were in the grip of misunderstanding and deep-seated anger.

Warren had come from Baltimore to meet her here. She was late in arriving. When she did appear it was with a man he did not know. The man and her lateness—in Warren's mind an intentional thing—made him turn to the first pretty girl in that garden of southern prettiness and, as fate would have it, a girl in whom—rumor said—he had once been interested beyond the point of friendship.

Nell knew this. She also knew herself guiltless of intentional delay. As for the man—she gave him no thought save as the means of dealing a hurt, and as she passed her angry fiance her face, filled with laughing interest, was always turned toward the other, the bright moonlight making distinct every varying expression.

If they had known a little more of life the two foolish things would not have had an unhappy moment, but she was seventeen and Warren not quite twenty-one. She cried herself to sleep that night and Warren took the early train for Baltimore. Neither had spoken ten words to the other.

* * * *

Uncle Charles was a matchmaker. He would have resented this if any one had had the assurance to declare it, for his matchmaking extended no further than his favorite niece and "that boy," as he called Warren Addison. He had done everything in his power to further a marriage that was violently opposed by the girl's father; had even promised to help them when they were ready to set up housekeeping. The two were as poor as the proverbial church mouse and had looked forward to a long wait before building up their home.

This home looked farther away than ever before that evening at Ellerslie. Warren had not been in the country since then and Uncle Charles could not understand this. He questioned Nell, but could get nothing from her save a shrug and a toss of her head. If Warren didn't care to come and was tired of writing, she wasn't going to worry herself about it, she declared. That was all the old gentleman could learn, but the fact that letters had ceased gave him food for thought.

He had not suspected the trouble has gone so far as that. He must do something to circumvent a ruthless fate. But what? He knew how to manage men, for he was a politician, but when it came to patching up a love affair—that was a different proposition entirely and needed more finesse than he laid claim to.

He talked the matter over with Aunt Mary. She was interested, but advised not to meddle. That was exactly what he had made up his mind to do, however, and the best way to do it, he decided, was to have a house party of his own.

Very much pleased with himself, he went to church the next morning and after service called two or three of the young men to him. Telling them his intention, he was soon the center of a fluttering group of femininity—pretty girls, some not quite so good looking as others, but making up for that lack by unusual brightness, but all delighted with the prospect of a week of gayety. For this happening took place when house parties were an event in young lives whose chief social interest lay in the weekly meetings in the church yard.

And Uncle Charles did not make them wait for their pleasure. The next evening found the gay crowd in his home and thereafter, every day, every evening, was filled with some form of amusement.

Nell and Warren were to all appearances the gayest of the company, but those who knew them well felt there was something wrong between them, possibly revealed by the extreme politeness of the one to the other.

When two days had passed, and then a week, and Uncle Charles saw no prospect of a settlement of their quarrel, he decided upon his final scheme, a ride to Annapolis—twenty-seven miles away—dinner there and a return home by moonlight, if that did not bring about results it was his intention to have a heart-to-heart talk with them and to tell them to kiss and make up. By this it will be seen he was sadly in need of that intuitive sense of what one should not do as go-between. Another mistake he made—he thought Nell a horse-woman. She was not. She had ridden a little, but there was no pleasure for her in the exercise. She was afraid of horses and the thought of mounting one of the spirited animals she knew would be brought for her use filled her with foreboding.

She was a coward about horses, but stronger than her cowardice was her pride, and she started with the others, her heart in her throat and clutching at the pommel whenever she thought the action would pass unnoticed. Her escort was on a newly-broken colt that claimed all of his attention and whose antics, at last, made every horse in the party restive. There was no surprise felt when he bolted and started a stampede down the narrow country road.

Nell was the only one incapable of managing her horse. She tried, but fright overcame her and the reins dropped. As they fell from her hand, the horse shied and she lay—a crumpled little heap by the roadside.

* * * *

A year later, the scene was again laid in the garden at Ellerslie. The dahlias and chrysanthemums again made patches of color and the moon brought out clearly the youthful forms wandering up and down the grass-grown walks. Under one of the trees sat a boy and a girl and he dropped over her hands the petals of the dahlia he had pulled to pieces. They had been very quiet and the thought of that other night was in the minds of both. Presently Warren spoke:

"Nell, Nell, to think how near we came to missing this."

She leaned a little toward him and her voice was low as she answered:

"I do not think we would have missed it, dear. I could have stood it no longer. I hoped you would speak. If not, love was more to me than pride and I would have told you on that ride to Annapolis."

He laughed a little. "And I? Well, I was waiting my opportunity when your horse shied. After that nothing mattered."

He gave a quick glance backward. No one was in sight and he leaned over and touched her lips.

Which goes to show that Uncle Charles had a keener insight into the ways of lovers than had been credited to him.

Cocoanut Oil Fine For Washing Hair

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Just plain mulsified cocoanut oil (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than the most expensive soap or anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get mulsified cocoanut oil at most any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months.

NEWS NOTES from MOVIELAND

BY DAISY DEAN

Kathlyn Williams in her garden.

No, this is not a Belgian woman, "working in the fields" while friend husband dodges gas bombs at the front. It is none other than Kathlyn Williams, the well known yhotoplay star, working in her garden which surrounds her little bungalow on the outskirts of Los Angeles.

Unlike many other prominent thespians, Miss Williams believes in getting up with the birds in place of retiring at a time when the little chirpers start the day. Her garden affords the pretty actress considerable pride and justly so. "Skirts are a nuisance at times," says the Morosco-Pallas star, "and this is particularly true when one tries to crouch among dense rose bushes or climb a tree."

A regular man's shirt, folded down at the throat and tucked into a pair of regulation overalls is the garb in which Miss Williams greets the morning sun in her garden. Several hours of manipulation with the rake, shears and spade are enjoyed by her before starting for a day's work at the studio. Whenever she is not occupied before the motion picture camera one can always feel sure that she may be found fussing with one of her botanical pots as long as the sun shines. Flowers, trees, plants and sunshine are her hobbies. Is there little wonder at the fact that her complexion spells health?

Vola Smith in A Real Gown

Vola Smith has some interesting gowns to offer in a role of featured lead, with the Harry Millard company at Universal City. The girlish prettiness possessed by this nineteen-year-old lady has tempted her other directors to specify "curls, gingham dress and bare feet" for the majority of pictures in which this little leading lady has been cast. It is with much rejoicing that she is to have the opportunity to enjoy a real hairdress and pretty gowns before the camera.

Director Mack Sennett, conforming with the edict of Police Judge King of Santa Monica, relative to the length of bathing suits, has ordered the re-costuming of the famous Keystone bathing girls. Oh, well, we've seen 'em once, anyway.

International is to produce a travel film, "Seeing America First," because, it is announced, Americans are beginning to take an interest in America since the war shut off travel to Europe.

Owen Moore says: "My land, how in the world would I get time to write to photoplay fans when I don't get a chance to write home to my mother more than once or twice a year?" My land!

Skin trouble costs many a man his job

No matter how efficient a man may be, if he has an ugly skin-eruption, there are positions in which he cannot be tolerated. He may know that it is not in the least contagious, but other people are afraid, they avoid him, and he must make way for a man with a clear, healthy skin. Why run this risk, when

GREAT BATTLE FOR BIG ARMOR PLANT ON IN WASHINGTON

More Than 120 Cities Send the Best Orators to Try to Land Rich Plum

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—Four naval authorities on Thursday umpired the liveliest land battle they ever saw, the $11,000,000 prize contest for the government armor plate plant site. Six score and a few odd cities are participating. Each contesting city has all the advantages needed for any first-class armor plate factory and, according to her earnest orators, has them to a degree not equalled by any other.

The naval authorities, Secretary Daniels, Assistant Secretary Roosevelt, Admiral Benson and Rear Admiral Strauss, heard arguments Wednesday of the cities in state that began with Alabama and continued alphabetically down to Rhode Island. Today, Providence, R. I., opened the engagement. Tennessee, Texas, Virginia and West Virginia cities were to be heard before dark.

The cheapest fuel, the best transportation, the most accessible deposits of ore, the highest class of labor and the best working conditions were common attributes of all cities represented. Some threw in the finest climate for good measure.

The naval men are giving serious consideration to all the points made. They have to balance against the advantages of deep water harbors on the coast, the danger of attack by a foreign enemy and the inland cities orators are making the most of this. With this element of danger removed it is generally agreed the coast cities competing for the plant would have all the advantages.

No established steel compnay has accepted Secretary Daniel's invitation to make offer of sale. The invitations were sent out in accordance with the terms of the law which gave the secretary authority to build, or buy "a second-hand" plant.

A representative of the Midvale company was on hand but merely as an onlooker.

With the conclusion of arguments the navy general board has decided to visit a majority of the sites proposed.

Some of the cities' propositions, it was stated, will necessarily have to be abandoned at the start, because sites suggested do not come within that section of the law which provides that the plant must be located "with special reference to safety in time of war," that section, all members of the general board investigated say, will be principal issue involved in the location of the plant that will mean employment to many thousands of men and a payroll of many hundred thousands.

Other important considerations, such as availability of raw material transportation facilities, etc., will be waived, if necessary to meet the provision.

The United Press learned Thursday from an authoritative source that the following big factories must be considered in deciding on a location:

Availability of raw material.

Condition of labor market.

Transportation facilities, with the matter of bridges to be crossed or the lines to ship and building plants, is a factor of first importance. It was explained that the size and immense weight of the finished product made the matter of bridges and tunnels important.

RULES ON WHOLESALE LICENSE

MADISON, Wis., Sept. 14.—The attorney general Wednesday advised District Attorney C. H. Bruemmer of Kewaunee, that a town, city or village may issue as many wholesale liquor licenses as it desires.

BELOIT, Wis., Sept. 14.—A branch of the Red Cross society has been formed in this city with officers as follows: Chairman, Maj. R. P. M. Rossman; Vice Chairman, Miss Mary Whelan; treasurer, B. P. Eldred; Secretary, E. C. Helm.

"Poor Little Rich Girl" Gets a Home at Last

Ramona Borden, daughter of the millionaire Gail Borden, married George S. Parkes of Anderson, Ind., at Los Angeles the other day and thereby at last acquired a home. Three years ago, when seventeen years old, she ran away from a sanitarium in New Jersey with two Washington women and was later found in Boston. Because of differences between her father and mother she had not spent a great deal of time with either. She gave out this remarkable statement when she was returned to her father:

"I wanted happiness. I longed for a mother's love. I was weary of boarding schools and the paid affection of strangers. I had riches at my command, I had servants at my beck and call, but I had no one to whom I could pour out my heart.

"Daughters of rich people are not always happy. I haven't had a home for years. What I wanted was just a home and a mother."

VERNON COUNTY SCHOOLS CREDIT BOYS' CHORES

Milking the Cow and Building Morning Fire Worth a Credit According to New Plan of Sparta Superintendent

SPARTA, Wis.—(Special.)—County Superintedent Haney will introduce in the Vernon country schools this fall a new system of home credit, with the idea of bringing the home and the school, the parents and teachers in closer touch.

The plan is to credit the scholars for duties and work performed at home.

For an example, milking the cow, building the fire in the morning will give one point.

Other labor performed, requiring more time, will receive additional credit points.

Pupils twelve years old, will have added to their final standings for the year, one percent for each 200 credit marks and pupils over twelve years, will receive on per cent for each 300 credits.

The parents will be provided with printed schedules, on which the credit marks are to be reported each week to the teacher, who will present them to the county superintendent.

Mr. Haney presented the plan at the institute this fall and it met with the approval of the teachers.

GRAND JURY SETS WOLF FREE UPON CHARGE OF ARSON

Preston Man Escapes Third Trial in Connection with Destruction of Feed Mill

PRESTON, Minn., Sept. 14.—(Special.)—Frank W. Wolf, grain dealer here charged with setting fire to his barn and feed mill nearly two years ago, was liberated late Wednesday afternoon when the district court grand jury failed to return an indictment against him.

Mr. Wolf has had two trials on the same charge. He was found guilty over a year ago by a jury, and was granted a second trial, which resulted in a jury disagreement. Had the grand jury returned an indictment he would have gone on trial within the next few days for the third time. His case has probably caused more comment in southern Minnesota than any court action in years.

The Preston man was alleged to have gone to La Crosse early in the evening on which his property burned. It was charged by a Minnesota deputy fire marshall that he paid for a room at the Hotel La Crosse, but did not visit it, leaving La Crosse shortly afterwards and walking the greater part of the distance from La Crosse to Preston. It was charged that he poured kerosene on his property, and touched a match to it. Arthur Green, clerk at the La Crosse hostelry, F. H. Bradley, also a hotel clerk, and members of the La Crosse police department were summoned as witnesses.

BIG ANIMAL ACT HEADS NEW BILL

The La Crosse Theater will present, beginning Thursday, its best vaudeville offering so far this season, according to the management.

Heading the list is vaudeville's cutest animal act, Stickney's Miniature circus, Godfrey and Henderson in a singing and talking act, and Marion and Martinez Randal, the ultra modern dancers, Fred Lundy, in his own original character study "Yens Yenson, the Yanitor," and last but not least the Marble Gems, a group of people offering life reproductions of marble classics.

TORTURE SCENE ALL TOO REALISTIC

To view the attempted burning at the stake of a white man, from an orchestra chair is a dangerless diversion. But the actor who played the captive in the Pallas-Paramount, "Davy Crockett", actually toyed with death to make the scene.

Tied with rawhide thongs to the stake and surrounded by fire around which real redmen danced gave atmosphere but the fire made a bigger blaze than anticipated.

The thongs had burned through and his clothes were ablaze when Dustin Farnum acting the role of "Davy Crockett" made the spectacular rescue through the flames.

True histrionic instinct held the player to his post until Dustin quickly made the pre-arranged rescue. Of such stuff are motion picture actors made. Playing tonight, Friday and Saturday at the Bijou.

ADVISES BIRTH CONTROL

DES MOINES, Ia., Sept. 14.—Judge Charles A. Dudley, in open district court Wednesday advised Mr. and Mrs. Willis Dingman to acquaint themselves with birth control methods. The couple, just passed the 40's have had nine children, several of whom have come to the attention of the juvenile court.

Judge Dudley said: "Theodore Roosevelt with his anti-race suicide talks has done more harm to this country than any other living man."

Judge Dudley told Mrs. Dingman she was physically unable to the task of raising any more children and that she already had done her duty in that respect. The couple agreed and promised to take the judge's advice.

CAMPAIGN AGAINST INNOCENTS' DEATH IS GIVEN BOOST

Confessions of Two Absolve Another of Actual Participation in Nichols Murder

OTHERS SAVE FROM CHAIR

Stielow and Bambrick Cases Attract Attention; Third Degree Methods Are Charged

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—With the confession of Joseph Mulholland of the part he and three other men played in the murder of Mrs. Elizabeth Nichols, aged wealthy widow, a year ago, another chapter was added to New York's remarkable record of chapter convictions in which every effort is now being made to show that innocent men were sentenced to death or life imprisonment.

The confessions of Mulholland and Arthur Waltonen, arrested in Ironwood, Mich, absolve Onni Talas from actual participation in the murder of Mrs. Nichols. But Talas, a mere youth, is now in Sing Sing, sentenced to life imprisonment.

Two other cases which have attracted wide attention are those of Charles F. Stislow, convicted of the murder of Charles B. Phelps and the latter's housekeeper and Thomas Bambrick, sentenced to death for the alleged murder of Policeman George Dapping here.

Stislow has been snatched from the death chair repeatedly and another man was finally found who confessed to the murders, though he later repudiated his statement. Bambrick is sentenced to die Friday morning. He was saved at the last moment only a few weeks ago by a court order. Owing to the discovery of new evidence, District Attorney Swann intimated Thursday he might ask for another reprieve for Bambrick. Affidavits have been received indicating that Bambrick may be innocent. Frank Meehan, now in Sing Sing, has sworn that he saw Dapping killed and that a tall man shot him. Bambrick measures only five feet five inches, and when taken before Meehan, the latter swore positively he was not the man who killed Dapping.

Stislow's confession is declared to have been dragged from him by third degree methods.

The confessions of Mulholland and Waltonen are regarded by the police as completely clearing up the Nichols case, which has always retained an element of mystery. A third man implicated is still at large. Mulholland and Waltonen told how they tried to get Talas to kill the wealthy widow but he was afraid. They then overpowered and bound him and rushed to Mrs. Nichols' room. On seeing them she fell back dead of heart failure. The men who had frightened her to death escaped with jewelry valued at about $16,000. Talas was arrested, tried and convicted of murder.

MAY MAKE STEPS TO TAKE PREMIUM FROM ENTERPRISE

By CARL D. GROAT
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 14.—Steps to relieve any unfair burdens in Mexican taxation of foreign owned property appeared likely to result from the conference Thursday between American and Mexican commissioners here. At the same time the commissioners drew nearer to a concrete proposition for withdrawing American forces from Mexico and patrolling the boundary.

During the morning the joint commission discussed taxes. The Mexicans said frankly there is no intent to place a premium in enterprise, and the American commissioners agreed there is an effort to encourage development of revenues for the government, while at the same time promoting industrial growth.

General Bliss counselled the American commissioners Thursday afternoon on withdrawal and border patrol questions. From the suggestions a plan for withdrawing the troops in the near future and rearranging the border patrol will undoubtedly develop.

The lobbyist group continues to grow about the commissioners daily. Letters from "interests" protecting and suggesting, come in stacks. Some of the lobbyists may be heard by the commissioners—but probably not.

The presence of J. P. Morgan's yacht, Corsair, at the harbor entrance here, led to stories—unconfirmable—that the financier will take a direct hand in financial negotiations with Mexico. Morgan himself was not aboard the Corsair when she steamed in Wednesday night and flashed mysterious light signals ashore.

A tent will be secured and reading matter and writing material will be supplied. This enterprise is under the direction of a committee consisting of Mesdames Earl G. Mell and Herbert J. Bullock.

The lesson for the day was in charge of Mrs. Spence. Mrs. M. M. Matthews delivered a most interesting paper on the subject, "The Romance of Santa Fe," in which she told of the early life and traditions of the people of this city, the oldest in the southwestern part of the United States. Mrs. Bullock had for her subject "Santa Fe in Geography." The current events of the week were taken up by Mrs. Spence. Roll call was responded to with quotations from Longfellow.

The next meeting of the club will be held on September 20th, as the regular meeting day comes during the week of the Interstate fair.

The floor was well filled with dancers, the excellent music of the Yeoman orchestra being greatly enjoyed by all. The Yeomen will hold their regular meeting in the small hall next Tuesday evening, but this will in no way interfere with the weekly social.

Harry H. Lee, state manager of the Yeomen, is attending the state fair in Milwaukee this week.

CASSIDY-SPENCER

At a quiet home wedding at four o'clock this afternoon, Miss Millicent Spencer, daughter of Mrs. S. B. Spencer, 1622 Berlin street, became the bride of Samuel E. Cassidy, of Tulsa, Oklahoma. The Rev. J. E. Watson of the West Avenue Methodist church officiated at the ceremony, which took place at the bride's home. Only a few near relatives witnessed the ceremony.

The bride was attended by Miss Clara Shove of Onalaska, and Edgar Chamberlain of this city was best man.

Following the ceremony a wedding dinner was served to the bridal party. Mr. and Mrs. Cassidy leave this evening for a week's visit in Minneapolis and St. Paul, and after October first will be at home at 1622 Berlin street.

The bridal gown was a simple, dainty frock of cream color, and she carried a bouquet of bride's roses. The bridesmaid was attired in white and carried sweet peas. Mrs. Cassidy's going-away suit was of blue serge.

The only out of town guest present at the wedding was Mrs. Fred Ishnour of Houston, Texas.

Mrs. Cassidy is well known on the north side as a teacher of piano and public school music, and has many friends in both sections of the city who extend to her their good wishes. Mr. Cassidy is a baker by occupation.

Housewives' League Head Justifies Bread Increase

CHICAGO, Sept. 14.—Whether the investigation by the United States district attorney of the proposed increase in the price of bread here, which was resumed Thursday, will agree with the statement of Mrs. Julian Heath, president of the National Housewives' league, is the question with master bakers here.

After a conference Wednesday night with the heads of the bakers' organization, Mrs. Heath issued a statement justifying the proposed increase in bread prices.

"The baker is apparently justified in getting better prices, according to the present price of labor, flour and other ingredients," she said. "There is no question that the expense of making five-cent loaves is greater than the expense of making one ten-cent loaf. It seems to me that if the five-cent loaf is to remain, it cannot weigh more than ten ounces with the present price of raw materials."

TEXT OF JAPANESE ASSURANCES IS GIVEN TO PUBLIC

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—The text of written assurances given American Ambassador Guthrie at Tokio by the Japanese foreign office regarding Japan's adherence to the "open door" policy in China in connection with the recently signed Russo-Japanese treaty was given out by the state department Thursday.

Part of the text follows:

"The imperial government desires to assure the American government that the new convention is in no sense designed to repeal or to modify the provisions of article 2 of the conventions concluded between Japan and Russia of July 31, 1917, nor have the imperial government entertained for a moment any intention to depart from the policy to which they have avowedly committed themselves respecting the maintenance and independence and territorial integrity of China as well as the equal opportunity for the trade of all nations in that country.

"On the contrary they are as strongly convinced as ever of the usefulness of that policy in the interests of the general stability in the Far East which they have always very near their heart."

These written assurances were given Ambassador Guthrie September 13, in addition to oral ones, in reply to a request which the state department made through the ambassador August 16 for information regarding the treaty.

The Russian minister of foreign affairs has similarly assured the American ambassador to Russia regarding the treaty.

PRAISES CONDUCT OF THE WISCONSIN TROOPS ON BORDER

Walter H. Bartz of the Third Wisconsin hospital corps, has forwarded a copy of a letter in which the mayor of New Braunfels commends the conduct of Wisconsin militiamen while encamped in that city. It is especially interesting owing to the fact that the Illinois troops, who preceded the Badger boys in camp, had literally "torn up the town." The letter follows:

"General L. T. Richardson,
"Camp Landa.

"Dear Sir: As Mayor of the city of New Braunfels I desire to express to you, and through you to your officers and troops, the satisfaction and pleasure enjoyed by the entire citizenship in having the Wisconsin troops in our city during the encampment here. I am pleased to say that no finer body of men has ever visited us, and the Wisconsin troops have won our lasting regard and high esteem by their soldierly bearing as manly men.

"It is especially pleasing to say I have no knowledge of either rowdyism or intemperance in any of your men, a fact of which you and the citizenship of your state should alike be proud.

"As all Texas welcomed you and your brave men when the Mexican war cloud for a brief time shadowed our country, so again would we of New Braunfels even more gladly welcome the manly Wisconsin men as civilians in our midst, when the sunshine of peace has again kissed our fair land.

"Hoping that both you and your troops may return safely to the peaceful confines of your own great state, and trusting that this brief acquaintance of Texas and Wisconsin may but strengthen our common bands of patriotism, amity and good will, I am,

"Very sincerely yours,
"CHARLES ALVES, Mayor."

Seek New Record as Association Outlines Work of the Children for the Coming Year

Planning an active program for the school year, the executive committee of the Penny Savings association of the La Crosse schools has addressed to all principles and teachers a report showing the success achieved and bespeaking co-operation in the work.

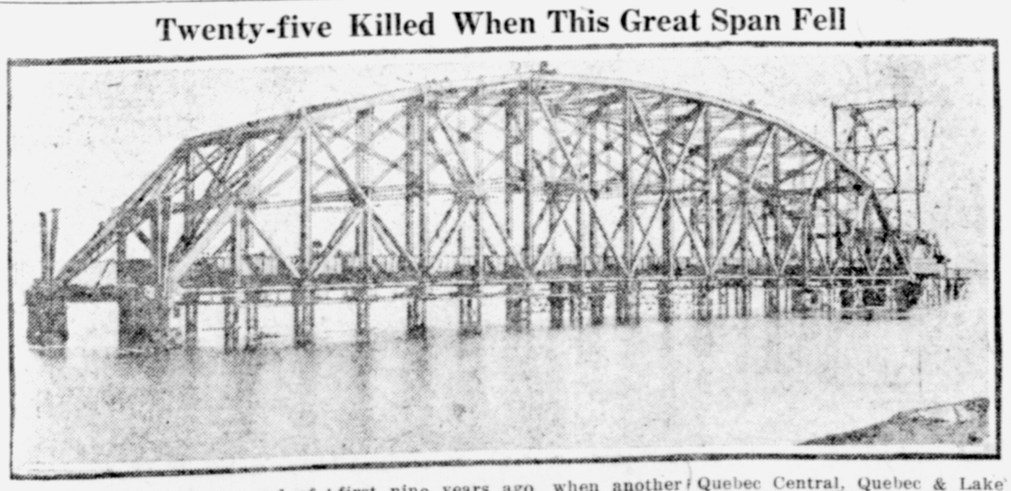
Twenty-five Killed When This Great Span Fell



Canadian cabinet officers and officials on a gala day saw twenty-five workmen killed when this great central span of the $17,000,000 Quebec bridge over the St. Lawrence river broke loose and plunged to the bottom, 200 feet below. It was the second accident on the bridge, the first nine years ago, when another span fell, having resulted in the death of eighty-four workmen.

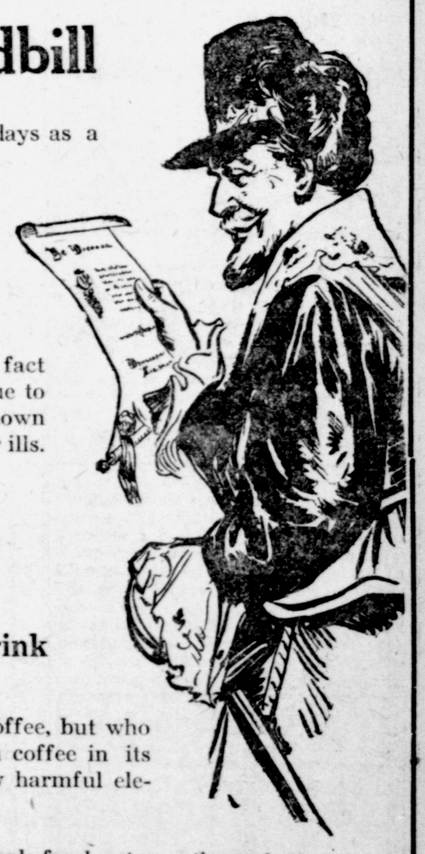
The bridge was built for the purpose of shortening the railway journey across the continent by about 200 miles. It was to be used by eight railways, the C. P. R., Grand Trunk, Delaware & Hudson, Intercolonial, Quebec Central, Quebec & Lake St. John, Quebec & Saguenay and Canadian Northern.

The principal dimensions of the bridge are: Length, from shore to shore, 3,839 feet; width between buttresses, 1,800 feet; length of central span, 640 feet; height of central span above river, 150 feet.

An Old English Handbill

advertised a public warning about coffee in its early days as a beverage in England. It said:

"You are not to drink it after supper unless you intend to be watchful, for it will hinder sleep for three or four hours."



That was 250 years ago. Today it is a well-known fact that sleeplessness, brought on by coffee drinking, is due to the presence of the drug, caffeine, in coffee. It is also known that coffee drinking is a common cause of various other ills.

POSTUM

was devised especially for people who should not use coffee, but who like a hot beverage with meals. It resembles mild Java coffee in its snappy taste, but contains no coffee, caffeine, nor any harmful element.

Postum is good for old and young, and can be drunk freely at any time of the day with pleasure and comfort.

"There's a Reason"

FIVE STRIKE CARS PILE UP IN BIG NEW YORK TIE-UP

Accident Occurs on Same Line on Which Three Men Were Killed Tuesday

STRIKERS IN MEETING

Crowd Estimated at 7,000 Marches Through Streets; Owners Still Obtinate

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—While reports were coming in of five street cars operated by strike-breakers being piled up at the bottom of a grade, injuring nine persons, and traction officials stolidly reiterated their refusal to arbitrate their differnces with the union, several thousand strikers paraded through the streets here Thursday, seeking support in their fight for the existence of their organization.

The Union line in the Bronx, on which the five car smash-up occurred, is the same on which three persons were killed Tuesday when a car jumped the track. One car after another plunged down the grade on Westchester avenue in the latest accident with men and women screeming and shouting for help. The cars dashed down at such speed they dared not jump. When the first stopped at the bottom, the four coming up behind crashed into it. The strike-breakers said the brakes on the cars refused to work. They also claimed the tracks had been greased during the night.

Some attempts were made to resume traffic on the surface lines affected by the strike, but in the main the tie-up of the companies whose men are on strike, was complete.

Subway and elevated trains continue to poerate no regular schedule but carrying unprecedented crowds, owing to the paralyzation of surface lines and are jammed to suffocation.

Headed by a band furnished by the musicians' union, the strikers on Thursday marched from Eighty-sixth street and Park avenue to Union square, where a mass meeting was held in the afternoon. About 3,000 of the strikers were in uniform. Police estimates placed the number in line at 7,000, but union officials declared there were many more.

Samuel Gompers, president, and Hug Frayne, organizer of the American Federation of Labor, were scheduled among the speakers at the mass meeting.

William B. Fitzgerald, who is leading the strike, and Meyer London, socialist congressman, were also to address the crowd. Later the strike leaders will appear before the public service commission again.

The day marked the opening of the second week of the strike. Settlement was apparently as far off as the day the first men walked out.

"I thing this plan will meet with the approval of all members of the Round Table," Mr. Storkerson said.

Mr. Storkerson is in receipt of a letter from C. W. Price, an operative of the industrial commission, and well known in La Crosse, which states that Mr. Price is leaving the commission to take a position as field secretary with the National Safety council.

"The thirteen Round Tables which have been created in Wisconsin," Mr. Price writes, "have been among the most valuable and effective helps which the commission has received in establishing safety in the confidence of the manufacturers and in helping the superintendents and foremen to work out their problems."

NEUTRAL FORCE OF CONSTABULARY PLAN FOR BORDER

NEW LONDON, Conn., Sept. 14.—Establishment of a neutral constabulary along the border was strongly urged by the Mexicans here on Thursday in the conference of the joint American-Mexican commission endeavoring to reach a solution of the problem of Mexico.

Under this system the patrolling force would be non-military, but under discipline as strict as that observed in an army. They would have large powers in patrolling the border and in general would be an organization similar to the Mexican rurales or Texas rangers.

LACK ENOUGH VOTES MUST BE INDEPENDENTS

MADISON, Wis., Sept. 14.—Rock county assembly and county democratic candidates will have to go on the ballot at the fall election as independent candidates. The democratic party in that county failed to cast ten pe cent of the last vote for governor at the recent primaries and so the candidates cannot be placed on the party ballot. It is up to the county clerk of Rock county to decide whether the names of the candidates mentioned shall be placed upon the ballots as independent candidates.

In an opinion to District Attorney Dunwiddie, Janesville, Thursday, Attorney General Owen so decides the question.

NEW YORK, Sept. 14. — Records were smashed again Thursday in a wave of public buying on the New York Stock exchange. United States Steel common swung into the market leadership again and in the early afternoon established another new high record price at 107 up 1 7-8 for the day. The previous high was 105 3-4.

The bull crowd behind General Motors bowled the new leader of the "war brides" along 53 points farther to $750 a share, up $160 in three days.

Utah Copper touched a new high at 89; Studebaker jumped 5 1-2 to 134 1-2 and New York Air Brakes advanced 3 3-4 to 146.

Bethlehem Steel continued the advance which started Wednesday by selling at 580 shortly after one o'clock, up 25 1-2 and but 20 under its record.

Motors, in which there has been a heavy short interest, were boomed along with steel and equipment stocks and there was a wild rush to cover by traders who had sold, expecting declines.

At noon 869,000 shares had been traded.

The skyrocketing performances of General Motors, which two years ago sold at $25 a share, has been accompanied by various reports regarding a proposed reorganization plan and by rumors of a giant automobile merger. Earlier advances in General Motors were based on war order business.

Bethlehem Steel started its advance Wednesday on rumors that it was seeking control of the Crucible Steel company. Official denial of this report set Crucible back temporarily, but "Beth" continued its climb and Crucible sold Thursday at 94 3-4 at one time.

Reading set its record price at 114 5-8. At one o'clock prices were generally at the highest of the day. Industrial Alcohol sold at 128 1-2; Crucible 94 7-8; Baldwin 91 3-4 and Union Pacific 143 3-4.

Both International Mercantile Marine issues made new records, the common at 50 7-8 and preferred at 125 1-4.

With sales of 481,000 shares, the first hour was the busiest hour since the war started. The million share mark was crossed at 12:30.

Reading advanced its record, selling at 114½ in late trading and Utah Copper bettered its record, set earlier in the day by going to 89⅜. Industrial Alcohol climbed to 129¾ and Crucible touched 97½.

Profit-taking caused some irregularity but the close was steady.

Sales mounted toward a record in the afternoon, when at two o'clock nearly 1,400,000 shares had changed hands on the floor of the exchange. Previous record sales days include March 14, 1907,—2,496,000 shares; September 28, 1915, — 1,788,000 shares; September 27, 1911,—1,741,000 shares; October 1, 1915,—1,498,000 shares.

Heavy realizing failed to shake prices, and strength was maintained at or near the best quotations of the day.

Sales on the Stock exchange were 1,751,00 shares. U. S. Steel closed at 1.06⅛.

EVEN FALL FASHIONS IN STORES WILL APPEAR WITH BIG FALL OPENING

Fashions in hats and clothing are familiar. But it may come with the force of novelty to many people, the information divulged by Harry Newburg, chairman of the committee arranging for the big fall opening fathered by the Merchants' Bureau of the Chamber of Commerce, that there are fashions in stoves, in furniture, in jewelry, in tobacco, in goshonlyknowswhatall.

Mr. Newburg avers as a fact that merchants all through the "loop" are preparing to make big displays of the fall fashions in their respective lines. Window-displays, he told a reporter, will cover every conceivable line of merchandise.

Hence, Citizens, prepare to witness the very latest creations for fall in the base burners, as you toddle down the main stems next Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. Be steeled to withstand the burst of enthusiasm that will rush over you at the sight of a dainty confection in Autumn oilcloth. New fall pies and cakes will be on display in the restaurant windows, it is announced, and the most up-to-the-minute conceptions in early winter vegetables will flirt with you from the grocery stores.

Chicago Grain Review

CHICAGO, Sept. 14.—Reports that Argentine wheat is being offered at prices lower than American figures at Galveston, Texas, combined with heavy speculation, tumbled wheat values from 1¾ cents to three cents on the Chicago board Thursday. September was down below a high opening 1¾c at $1.48¾; December down 2¼cat $1.49¼, and May down 3c at $1.49½.

CHICAGO, Sept. 14.—Good commission buying strengthened the wheat market Thursday, a strong demand being in evidence on the firmness of Wednesday's outside markets. Light offering helped to accentuate the upward movement. September closed up above a high opening 1¼c at $1.51¾; December up ¾c at $1.52¼, and May down ⅛c at $1.52⅜.

Frost forecasts for the entire corn belt caused a rush to buy at advanced prices. Prices declined later as buying orders were absorbed. September was above the opening ⅜c at 86¼c; December down ¼c at 72¼c, and May down ⅛c at 75⅜c.

Oats continued sligtly higher on the strength in wheat. September was up ⅜c at 44¾c; December unchanged at 47½c, and May up ⅛c at 50½c.

Provisions were slightly lower despite a strong hog market.

FELICITATES POINDEXTER

FACULTY PIONEER OF NORMAL SCHOOL IN NEW POSITION

Miss Lillian Bettinger Takes Supervision of the Grade Schools in Jacksonville, Fla.

Miss Lillian Bettinger, one of the "charter" members of the normal school faculty, has resigned her position in the training department here to accept an $1,800 position at Jacksonville, Florida, where she will have supervision of the city graded schools. The change marks a big advancement for the well-known normal instructor.

Miss Bettinger came to the La Crosse normal at the time of its foundation, having taught at the local institution for the last seven years. She was one of the best known and popular as well as one of the most efficient members of the normal faculty. She had charge of grades seven and eight in the model school. Miss Bettinger was a graduate of the Whitewater Normal school in this state, and had obtained a Ph. B. degree at the University of Wisconsin. Previous to coming to La Crosse, she had been employed in a St. Paul training school. Since school was dismissed in June, Miss Bettinger has been attending Columbia university.

The place occupied by Miss Bettinger will be filled temporarily, was the announcement made Thursday, by Miss Saunders, a resident of Onalaska, who will assume her new duties when school re-convenes on Monday.

WINONA DAILY NEWS LAUNCHED WITH U. P.

WINONA, Minn., Sept. 14.—The Winona Daily News was launched Thursday with Emil Leicht as editor. The paper seems to have the backing of over half the advertising contracts of the city as well as a $100,000 corporation that prints the Westlicher Herold, of which Leicht is editor. The paper will have an efficient local staff, in charge of H. E. Wright, formerly of the St. Paul Daily News, and the United Press leased wire.

200,000,000 BUSHELS FOR THREE PROVINCES

WINNIPEG, Man., Sept. 14.—Saskatchewan, Manitoba and Alberta will produce 200,000,000 bushels of wheat this year, according to the Free Press Thursday. Half of this is raised in Saskatchewan, which escaped some of the black rust. The entire crop is reported unsatisfactory, the percentage of No. 1 grade being small. Of 2,458 cars of wheat passing through Winnipeg this month, only 1,350 cars were this year's crop.

IONUMENTAL TASK ONFRONTSMENTORS F NORMAL SCHOOL

en Regulars of Last Year's Team Lost and Captain Feinberg Will Not Be Back

AY GET KULCYNSKI

ormer High School Star Probably Will Join Keeler's Slim Squad

The most baffling problem which s ever confronted normal coaches that which stares local mentors in e face on the dawn of the fall acities on the gridiron. Ten regurs of last year's eleven are lost the team for good.

Added to the calamity of last June hen nine men were graduated mes the announcement from Capin-elect Feinberg of this fall's team at he will not return to school. 'm going to hand in my resignaon to Dr. Sputh at the first oppority," was the statement he made The TRIBUNE Thursday. His ss is about as serious as could bell the team in its crippled condion. The normal fullback and exgh school star has become attached the Duplex Tire company during e summer recess which prevents s return to the normal. Alex Nanson, another normal student, has so decided to pass up his schooling remain with the Pearl street conrn.

Here are the football regulars who nished their normal courses last ne: Captain Strum, Wachter, Jackn, Bechtold, Skemp, Marcou, La omboise, Holthaus and Grauer.

Ray "Tub" Keeler, ex-university d La Crosse high school demon the pigskin, who takes over the ins of the local normal's football pes this year, will be forced to ratch his dome more strenuously an will his former teammate, ub" Buck, who is aiding with the lution of the varsity's problem. arry Grabsnick, who started at half the team last year, will return as big help to Keeler's staff. With him ill probably come "Shorty" rounds, the Michigan lad, who subed on Sputh's team of 1915. For the velopment of the remainder of the am, Keeler will have to look largeto the incoming students. However, there still remains Tubias, ust, Meinert, Ryan and others of e seconds who will most probably turn to school on Monday.

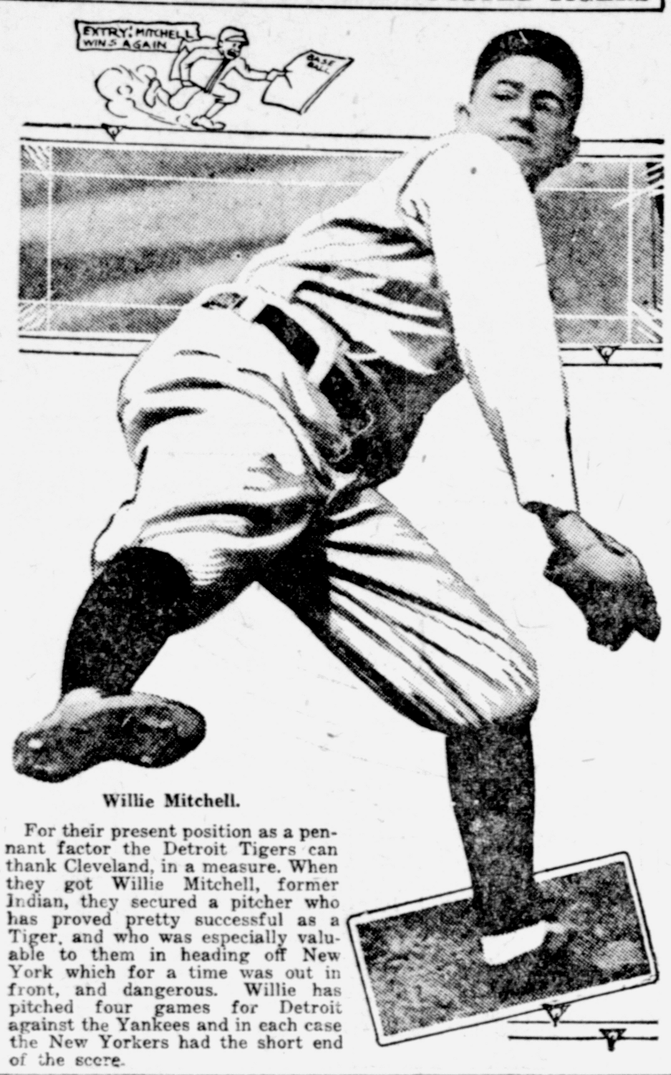
Several of La Crosse's high school hampions, it is understood, intend enroll at the normal, which sends e state school's stock up considerbly. It is practically a certainty that ouis Kulcinski, the scrappy end on orne's eleven for the last three ars, also basketball and track man, ill continue his school work at the ormal. No other member of the high hool team could have supplied a eater aid to normal prospects. oellig, all-around football man, will so enroll on Monday, and rumor s it that other players in the high hool class will decide to continue their scholastic training in La Crosse. Joe and Jim Baker, high school seconds of two years ago, will also go out at the normal this year for the first time although they attended school last year.

Benjamin May Come

There is another possibility that a few Indiana stars, who were attracted to the work being done at the local institution during the eastern trip made by the basketball team last year, will come here. Roy Benjamin, fullback on the Tomah team for the last four years, basketball and baseball demon, may come to this city. "I haven't made up my mind as yet whether I'll enter the university or the normal next week," was the statement made by Benjamin to The TRIBUNE. The Tomah man will take up journalism either at La Crosse or Madison. It is also expected that the smaller towns in this vicinity will supply their usually large quota of athletes from which Keeler will be expected to build up a team of winners.

The first call for candidates will come following the completion of the enrollment next week.

WILLIE MITCHELL COULD NOT HELP THE REDSKINS, BUT HE HAS BOOSTED TIGERS



Willie Mitchell.

For their present position as a pennant factor the Detroit Tigers can thank Cleveland, in a measure. When they got Willie Mitchell, former Indian, they secured a pitcher who has proved pretty successful as a Tiger, and who was especially valuable to them in heading off New York which for a time was out in front, and dangerous. Willie has pitched four games for Detroit against the Yankees and in each case the New Yorkers had the short end of the score.

NELSONS-ATHLETES MEET SUNDAY IN CITY TITLE SERIES

The Nelson Clothing company and the W. B. U. Athletes meet Sunday at League park in the first game of the city championship, it was announced Thursday. The game will be called at three o'clock.

Both the Nelsons and Athletes, the only city teams to play the entire season, have made good records, having defeated a majority of the teams they have met. They will play a three-game series for the city title.

DETROIT, Sept. 14.—Detroit defeated New York in the opening game of the series, 4 to 1, Wednesday afternoon and moved within two points of first place. The game was hotly contested with good pitching on both sides and much spectacular fielding.

Coveleskie had the game well in hand until the eighth ining when he issued his first base on balls. The next two men hit safely and a run was scored. Dauss was then sent in to relieve him. Pipp was sent in to bat for Shawkey and Russell finished the game.

Two more runs were scored on him on a pass, a hit and an error by Baumann. Spencer's finger was split when he went after a wild pitch.

WATCHING THE SCOREBOARD

Wednesday's Hero

Sherwood Magee. The doughty outfielder of the Braves showed the Cubs he can hit them by driving out a home run in the second game of a double header with the bases full.

The Braves jumped into a position from where they can again challenge the leaders.

Cobb didn't get any hits, but the rest of the Tigers got enough to whip the Yanks and the Tigers are now just three points behind the Red Sox.

Young Walter Holke, the Giants' new first baseman, hammered out a triple in the first game of a double header with the Reds and three runs, the total for the contest, scampered across.

George Smith, alleged to be a second Mathewson, tried his slants on the real Matty's team in the second game, but had little luck. He demised in the sixth.

The Cards came to the aid of the Dodgers when they gave Philadelphia an even break in a double bill at Philadelphia.

Carl Weilman chucked the game away for the Browns at Chicago, the White Sox winning on his error in the tenth.

Three Southern leaguers were helps to Cleveland in turning back the Athletics.

Tris Speaker had a perfect day with the bat, getting three hits out of three efforts.

The Dodgers were kicked almost into unconsciousness by the Pirates who maced three Brooklyn pitchers for a sextet of runs.

And the National league race again became a three-cornered merry-go-round.

FORMER DELIVERY HORSE WINNER OF FAIR 2:20 PACE

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Sept. 14.—Jim Zoo, a Burlington pacer who up to a few months ago helped drag an ice wagon, proved one of the many surprises at the state fair races on Wednesday. Six races were carded and split heats were the rule in all of the events with the exception of the 2:20 trot which went to June Todd in straight heats. Jim Zoo is owned by J. M. Christien of Burlington. The former delivery horse came from behind in the 2:20 pace and after a hard fight beat Laddie for first money, the pair racing an extra heat to decide the winner. Howard Newell, a university student, drove Jim Zoo. The track was exceedingly heavy on the outside and near the pole. The time made in all of the events was very fast considering the going.

In the opening race of the day Eva won the first two heats and then Winnie Axworthy grabbed one, but the Dean mare came right back and won the fourth heat and the race.

The 2:15 pace was a hard fought affair with Rolla Kanewood coming from behind, winning the last three heats in a five-heat race. Willis Woodland won the first heat and the second fall to Highland Twist.

In the 2:12 trot Miss Densmore carried off first honors, but The Proof and Abu Taleb each won a heat. The Michigan mare had the stamina, however, and won the fifth and deciding heat.

Deputy Sheriff stepped the first heat of the 2:08 pace in 2:08¼, which is remarkable considering the condition of the track. Kid Riely then came out and won the next heat and the third fell to Elmer Dickson. The judges then decided to put the race over until Thursday. Ten horses started in this event and it was a horse race from the start.

DILLON MATCHED TO MEET M'COY

NEW YORK, Sept. 14—Announcement was made here Thursday that Jack Dillon of Indianapolis and Al McCoy, holder of the middleweight title through a freak knockout of George Chip, will meet here soon in a ten round bout. The date was not given out.

M'GRAW REBUILDS GIANT MACHINE AND OTHERS FEAR

Rejuvenation of New Yorkers Complete; Only a Few of His Veterans Remain

BY H. C. HAMILTON
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—After being booted from pillar to post, wrecked as a machine that had battled in world's series, and then rebuilt, the New York Giants stand today the most dangerous team in the National league.

Manager McGraw and the New York fans claim this, and seven other managers in the Tener circuit admit it. The rejuvenation of the Giants has been complete. They won their eighth straight game when they took a double header from the Reds Wednesday.

There are no pennant hopes around the polo grounds for this year but watch out for 1917. The "next year" cry is an old one, but it looks like it may mean something coming from McGraw.

Slowly but surely, McGraw completely tore down the machine with which he achieved some of his greatest triumphs and with few of his veterans remaining, built a new one about them. Of the infield with which he started the 1916 race, only Fletcher remains at shortstop. "Buck" Herzog brought pep back with him. Larry Doyle has given way to Heinie Zimmerman. Fred Merkle has departed and a youngster—Walter Holke—is at first, the idol of Giant fans. He looks like a second Daubert or Chase.

Of the old outfield, which went through the last world's series in which the Giants appeared, only Burns remains. Benny Kauff and Davy Robertson look after the other gardens, both pounding the ball and fielding and throwing in clean, impressive style.

Of the pitching staff Matty has departed. Marquard and Meyers, a famous world's series battery, went to Brooklyn last year. McGraw still holds Tesreau, but his rising pitchers are Ferdie Schupp, a young lefthander he has worked for years, Fred Anderson and George Smith. Rube Benton and Poll Perritt, tried veterans on other teams, are working well under McGraw. Behind the bat Bill Rariden is taking care of the heavy work.

McGraw styles rumors of his retiring as foolish and John B. Foster, secretary of the club, laughed at the prospect of McGraw's going.

FEWER HOLIDAYS LONGER VACATION FOR NORMALIT ES

Many marked changes have been made in the normal school calender for the year 1916-17. As a result the students will enjoy fewer and shorter vacations during the school year but will be freed a week earlier next June, thereby gaining a longer summer recess. It is expected the new arrangement will be more satisfactory to the great bulk of the student body.

According to the calender published in the school's latest bulletin, there will be only a few days' recess at Thanksgiving time, somewhat over a week at Christmas instead of the customary two weeks, and at Easter the vacation will consist of the week-end instead of the entire week. Commencement day will occur on Friday, June 8, 1917.

Here are the facts:

First semester begins Monday, September 18, 1916.

Second quarter begins Monday, November 20, 1916.

Thanksgiving recess, from 4:10 p. m. November 30 to December 4 at 8 a. m.

Christmas recess, 4:10 p. m. December 22 to January 2 at 8 a. m.

Second semester begins Monday, February 5, 1917.

Washington's birthday, holiday, Thursday, February 22, 1917.

Fourth quarter begins Monday, April 9, 1917.

Easter recess, Friday before to Monday following Easter.

Memorial day, holiday, Thursday, May 30, 1917.

Commencement day, Friday, June 8, 1917.

You Can't Hide Corn Misery. Stop Fooling Around! Use "GETS-IT" Tonight and See the Corns Vanish.

out like pop-eyes, scissors and knives that make corns bleed and sore, harnesses and bandages that fill up your shoe, press on the corn and make your foot feel like a paving block. What's the use? Verse and Reverse

REST

I wish I was a rock,
A settin' on the hill,
A doin' nothin' all day long
But just a settin' still;
I wouldn't sleep, I wouldn't eat,
I wouldn't even wash;
I'd just sit still a thousand years
And rest myself, by gosh!

THE HASKIN LETTER

THE LINEAGE OF THE LAMP

By Frederic J. Haskin

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 14.—A collection of all the various illuminating devices used throughout the history of the world is now being prepared by Dr. Walter Hough of the National Museum here, and will be placed on exhibition as soon as space can be found for it.

Stowed away in large airtight cabinets in Dr. Hough's office is the complete record of man's development as shown by his lighting appliances from the days of the primitive campfire to the present Tungsten filament. Here is the firebrand by which our aboriginal ancestors transferred fire from tribe to tribe; here is the animal's skull which constituted the first attempt at a lamp, and the greased stick that was superseded by the candle. A part of the collection is already occupying three cases in the museum where it attracts a great deal of attention among visitors.

The story told by this collection is a most unusual one. According to the museum authorities, it was some time before men began to pay any attention to fire at all. It was all about them—in the volcanoes, in the lightning and in the friction of the tree branches—but they took no more account of it than did the animals. Then some one man, a little more intelligent than the rest, recognizing its power, undertook to conserve a supply of fire from one of these sources, and finally distributed it by firebrands throughout the land. Thus began the campfire age, which is represented in the museum collection by a picture, and by firebrands of every description belonging to every period.

Towards the end of this campfire period, man began to display ingenuity. He got tired of traveling long distances, and he got tired of going to war with other tribes who stole his fire. He tried dipping the sticks in resin and fat, which made them burn longer, but even this was unsatisfactory. The age demanded an invention and it came at last. Some ancient Edison discovered that by putting a lot of fat in a hollow stone or seashell or animal's skull and placing a wick in it he had a device which would burn for a long time. This was the primitive beginning of the lamp. Often, the whole body of a fish or bird was used. In the part of the collection now on exhibition in the museum there is a stormy petrel with a piece of fible in its trel with a piece of fiber in its a wick. This bird's body was composed largely of fat and would burn for hours.

The next step in man's development is represented in the collection by a number of odd curved stone slabs supposed to be lamps which were used in the stone age. Fat or grease was poured into these stone dishes and a circle of moss strewn around the edge to act as a wick. Lamps of this kind are still found in use among primitive peoples.

By this time men had become familiar with fire, and had even tried a few experiments with it. One of these resulted in pottery, and pottery lamps became the rage. At first they were simple little bowls with a slight twist in the edge to hold the wick, but gradually they developed elaborate patterns with the growing talent of the potters, until they somewhat resembled tiny teapots, with a spout in the side for a wick and a hole at the top where the oil was poured in. The museum's specimens of this type of lamp are especially remarkable, many having been sent in from all parts of Europe and Asia, displaying the most ancient craftsmanship and design. A hundred or more such lamps were sometimes required to light one room, and although the people were ingenious enough to invent a perfume for the oil, according to Dr. Hough, the place must have smelled like a butcher shop on fire. A dilapidated old lamp containing some of this early perfumed oil is one of the most prized specimens in the museum's collection.

Then came copper and bronze, and the lamps assumed a new symmetry and design as civilization and mechanic arts progressed. Pottery lamps were soon out of date, and brass and copper lamps began to ornament the houses and churches, tacked to the walls and suspended in chandeliers. It is Dr. Hough's personal belief that the famous lamp which Aladdin's mother gave to the peddler was a pottery lamp, and the new one she received made of copper.

The next step in lamp architecture was iron, and many were the curious designs wrought in this metal. An occasional iron lamp from Italy or Spain is always being discovered by some explorer for antiques who sends it to the museum. But all this time, although various metals had been discovered and applied to lamps there was no improvement whatever in the mechanism itself. The glass age had superseded iron for some time before Argand discovered the method of putting oil in a small reservoir and forcing it up through a wick and then covering it with a chimney. This, which was the first real lamp, as we know it today, made its appearance about 1784.

Following this invention came the discovery of kerosene and gas, and new fixtures were developed along new lines. So far the collection ends with the Welsbach burner, which is the most recent improvement for gas illumination, and the Tungsten filament for electricity. In the one case now on exhibition in the museum there are over twenty-four different speciment of lamps representing the various stages of civilization, but these are only the beginning of a collection which is to be one of the most extensive in the world. The number of candles and candlesticks alone would probably fill five or six cases, for there were improvements in this type of illumination throughout the ages the same as in lamps. The origin of the word candlestick is shown in two or three of these specimens which are carved sticks of wood with a small brass dish at the top.

Ultimately, Dr. Hough hopes to broaden the collection into a complete history of fire rather than a history of illumination alone. Among his present specimens are many curious old stoves and bellows and footwarmers and one curfew which is said to be the only one in America. It is the popular opinion in this country that the curfew was a bell, but instead it is a sort of brass lid which was used to cover the fire. At one time in England a law was passed requiring every light to be out at a certain hour in the night, presumably nine o'clock, and in order to comply to the letter of this law people had to suppress their fires. Thus the hour when the fires were covered with the curfew came to be called the curfew hour.

One time in traveling through a street in Mexico Dr. Hough came upon a peddler who had a singular little tin lamp among his goods. Dr. Hough immediately bought it and later inquired into its use. It turned out to be the type of lamp used by the Mexicans in hunting snails. Another time the doctor was traveling through a railroad tunnel in Italy when the train was held up while some repair was being made. He observed that the laborers used a peculiar kind of torch different from any he had seen before. He quietly got out of the train and, it must be admitted, stole one of the torches. Later, when he was able to look up the matter, he discovered that the torch, which was made of a greased piece of twisted rope, was the same kind that was carried by the link boys of early English history. It is now a valued speciment of the collection.

In nothing else perhaps, is the progress of the race from the dawn of understanding to the present day so evident as in this history of illumination. After all, the race is very young. Our grandmothers used the same sort of lamp, with very little difference, that was used in the days of the pyramids, and as late as 1876 when the Centennial exposition was held in Philadelphia a kerosene lamp of a common type, with a Liberty bell as its base, was pronounced the highest triumph of modern illumination. Apparently, the greatest progress has been made in the last ten or fifteen years, but who knows what another ten years may bring forth? The Tungsten filament may yet look medieval.

How To Get Rid Of Catarrh, Catarrhal Deafness or Head Noises

If you have catarrh, catarrhal deafness or head noises caused by catarrh, or if phlegm drops in your throat and has caused catarrh of the stomach or bowels you will be glad to know that these distressing symptoms can be entirely overcome in many instances by the following treatment which you can easily prepare in your own home at little cost. Secure from your druggist 1 ounce of Parmint (Double Strength). This will not cost you more than 75c. Take this home and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and 4 ounces of granulated sugar; stir until dissolved. Take one tablespoonful four times a day. A decided improvement is sometimes noted after the first day's treatment. Breathing becomes easy, while the distressing head noises, headache, dullness, cloudy thinking, etc., gradually disappear under the tonic action of the treatment. Loss of smell, taste, defective hearing and mucus dropping in the back of your throat are other symptoms which suggest the presence of catarrh and which are often overcome by this efficacious treatment. Nearly ninety per cent of all ear troubles are said to be directly caused by catarrh, therefore, there must be many people whose hearing can be restored by this simple home treatment.

TRAIN YOUR HAIR AS AN ACTRESS DOES

No class of people devotes as much time to beauty as do actresses, and naturally no class must be more careful to retain and develop their charms. Inquiry among them develops the information that in hair care they find it dangerous to shampoo with any makeshift hair cleanser. Instead they have studied to find the finest preparation made for shampooing and bringing out the beauty of the hair. The majority of them say that to enjoy the best hair wash and scalp stimulator that is known, get a package of canthrox from your druggist; dissolve a teaspoonful in a cup of hot water and your shampoo is ready. It costs less than three cents for this amount. After its use the hair dries rapidly, with uniform color. Dandruff, excess oil and dirt are dissolved and entirely disappear. Your hair will be so fluffy that it will look much heavier than it is. Its lustre and softness will also delight you, while the stimulated scalp gains the health which insures hair growth.

INDUSTRY SURVEY OF CITY ASSURED BY M & J BUREAU

Authorizes Selection of Committee to Carry Out Kinsloe's First Suggestion

WILL PROBE INDUSTRIES

All Facts Regarding Industrial Situation of La Crosse Are to Be Compiled

A comprehensive survey of industrial La Crosse was assured Wednesday evening at the first meeting of the Manufacturers' and Jobbers' bureau of the Chamber of Commerce. The chairman of the bureau was authorized to appoint a committee to work with Executive Secretary James R. Kinsloe to compile the information.

The industrial survey was the chief concrete recommendation of Kinsloe in his introductory speech to the chamber on the occasion of a big smoker at Hotel Stoddard on August 17. At that time Mr. Kinsloe declared that before proceeding intelligently to discuss La Crosse and its prospects with men desiring to locate here, it would be necessary to gather and tabulate a complete record of the industrial situation.

The committee and the secretary will get to work within a few days. The first step will be to formulate blanks asking for all the information desired, which will be sent to each manufacturer.

Arrangements for the display here of the Wisconsin Industrial commission's safety exhibit will be conducted by a committee, not yet appointed, which was authorized at the meeting last night. The action was taken after a communication from the industrial commission had been read, asking that La Crosse arrange to entertain the exhibit. It is similar to that which was shown here last year.

BRANDENBURG WILL BE HEAD OF TEXAS FIELD Y. M. C. A. WORK

La Crosse Young Man Sent to Border to Take Over Work Among the Badger Militia

Earl W. Brandenburg, formerly of this city, will take charge of the field Y. M. C. A. which is caring for the interests of Wisconsin soldiers in Texas, it was announced on Thursday. The information was received from the state committee of the Y. M. C. A. Mr. Brandenburg will succeed G. H. Warner, who returns to take charge of the Appleton Y. M. C. A. as general secretary. Mr. Brandenburg graduated from the La Crosse high school in 1910. He spent two years at the local Y. M. C. A., leaving here for Wausau with Carl Ogden, when the latter was made general secretary of that association. He was at Wausau two years, and since then has been attending the university at Madison.

When the troops were sent to the border, Wisconsin soldiers at Camp Wilson received one of five field Y. M. C. A. establishments which were started by the national committee of the Y. M. C. A. at a cost of about $2,000 apiece. They are general headquarters for the troops, and do much to lighten the monotony. A feature of their work is supplying stationery without cost. At the Wisconsin Y. M. C. A. recently, 20,000 letters were written by soldiers in a single day.

The local association has been assessed $100 to carry on the field work, and is asking assistance from those interested in the work. Contributions may be sent to A. C. Gran, general secretary of the La Crosse Y. M. C. A.

City Heat Will Vanquish Frigidity Beginning Friday

The cold spell which brought overcoats out of the mothballs on Thursday will vanish in those houses equipped with "city heat" Friday morning. The heating season will then be officially opened, it was declared at offices of the Wisconsin-Minnesota Light and Power company Thursday.

Court house officials, whose shiverings became marked, beat the balance of the city to comfortable quarters, and were reveling in their offices on Thursday morning in cozy temperatures. The court house heating plant was put into operation.

Heat was also circulating in the pipes of the city hall and various office buildings.

President Rushed to Sister's Sick Bed

MRS. ANNIE E. HOWE

President Wilson suddenly cancelled vacation plans at Shadow Lawn, N. J., and rushed to the sick bed of his sister, Mrs. Annie E. Howe, at New London, Conn., when he learned that she was seriously ill. He drove by automobile to New York City and then took a train to New London.

ART NOTES

Don't stand too near the pictures! It is a daily sight at the exhibit to see persons making an honest, even a painful effort to study and understand the paintings and yet standing so near as to make any comprehension of them impossible. When the brush marks or piles of pigment are plainly seen, the observer is too near. The artist's rule is, "Stand the distance away of three times the picture's greatest diameter." Practically all the present exhibit, except the miniatures, should be seen at a distance of ten to fifteen feet, certainly not nearer than the pillars in the room.

* * * *

Admission for non-members to Mr. Watson's lecture at 8 o'clock tomorrow evening will be $1.00. This will include a year's membership in the Art association.

* * * *

A miniature on the other hand, like an etching, is an intimate thing requiring close scrutiny if its fine, detailed work is to be enjoyed. It is painted with exceedingly fine brushes on ivory or porcelain, and is often painted under a magnifying glass. A good miniature, therefore, has much of the same kind of beauty as a small gem; it cannot be seen at too close a range, and should not suffer when seen through a magnifying glass. Some of the miniature painters represented in this exhibit have a national reputation.

* * * *

It cannot be too often repeated that the thing of most importance to us is to try to get the viewpoint of the artist; to ask ourselves insistently, what was it—the view, the composition, the color harmony, the play of light and shadow, the reflection, the arrangement or grouping of figures, the perspective—what was the thing which pleased the painter of this picture, and which he wished to perpetuate on canvas? This is the point of greatest importance not only for our understanding of the picture in question, but for ourselves in a general way if we are ever to grow in art knowledge or gain from art the pleasure it has in store for us. The exhibit will leave where it found all who come merely to criticise, to pose, or to air their own knowledge. Far better it is to do a little reading upon some of the principles of art which prevail in figure and landscape painting, some thinking, and a great deal of unbiased, receptive looking, in a docile frame of mind.

* * * *

The second (yesterday's) afternoon's attendance was 139.

* * * *

New members are coming into the fold every day. And thus are being added to the association daily such as will be saved artistically.

* * * *

Mr. Watson gives two gallery talks in the Masonic temple Friday—one to the teachers of the city (all teachers of all La Crosse; there is no "North La Crosse" since the organization of the Chamber of Commerce) at four (not two) o'clock and the other to members of the association at eight.

Some wag or cynic—I don't know which—predicted that soon tube paints will be shipping into La Crosse by carloads.

Some men never give a thought to the hereafter except when they have occasion to pass a graveyard on a dark night.

AL. HOUGHTON DIES SUDDENLY AT SALEM

Heart Disease Takes Well Known West Salem Man Suddenly During Early Part of Week

SCHOOL PROBLEM SOLVED

Board Rents Rooms and Space Is Given to the Domestic Science Department; May Add to School

WEST SALEM, Wis.—(Special.)—The many friends and acquaintances of Al Houghton were greatly surprised and grieved to hear of his death, which occurred on Monday shortly before noon. Mr. Houghton was on the street last Saturday and while it was known that he was not well, very few knew that he was suffering from an incurable heart trouble that might cause death at any time.

The problem of relieving the overcrowded school building has been partially solved.

Rooms have been rented by the school board in the Drectrom & Miller building and the domestic science department has been installed therein.

The rooms are large and light and conveniently situated. This allows the us of the old domestic science room for a recitation room or other branches.

The primary room is overcrowded and it seems apparent that a primary building will have to be added to the school and the parents of the little ones are hoping that the site chosen will be on the north side of the railroad tracks, so that the majority of the little ones will not have to cross the tracks several times a day.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is catarrh. Catarrh being greatly influenced by constitutional conditions requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Medicine is taken internally and acts thru the Blood on the Mucous Surfaces of the System thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in the curative powers of Hall's Catarrh Medicine that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address F. MAINE ELECTION HELPS FUNDS OF DEMOCRATS

BY ROBERT J. BENDER

(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

LONG BRANCH, N. J., Sept. 14.—The Maine election has started a boom in contributions to the democratic campaign fund and, according to guiding heads of the campaign, has given the democrats an awakening, which was "just what the party needed at this time."

During the last two days popular subscriptions to the campaign fund, ranging from one to one hundred dollars, have totalled $8,000 a day.

The president's plans for personal participation in the campaign are now uncertain because of his sister's serious illness. His scheduled trip to St. Louis September 20, may have to be called off. He probably will be able to speak in Baltimore September 24., but his plan officially to open the new dam at Albuquerque, N. M., in October, will probably have to be cancelled.

NEGRO IS HELD FOR ASSAULT ON WOMAN

LIMA, O., Sept. 14—James Smith, 31, colored, of Wisconsin, is being held in secret confinement by the police as the result of his alleged assault on Mrs. Grover Knittle, a white woman, in her home here on Wednesday night.

Although no trouble is feared, Sheriff Eley and his deputies are taking every precaution to prevent recurrence of the mob violence and rioting that took place less than two weeks ago when an angered mob sought to lynch Charles Daniels, another negro, who attacked Mrs. Vivian Baber.

The police refuse to disclose the whereabouts of Smith, who is held on a charge of assault with criminal intent. Early Thursday he was identified at the local jail by Mrs. Knittle.

ZEPPELIN DESTROYER GETS $2,500 PURSE

LONDON, Sept. 14.—Lieut. Robins, 21 year old aviator who shot down a Zeppelin in the recent raid on London, was widely acclaimed at the Baltic exchange Thursday when he was formally presented with a $2,500 purse raised by shipping men.

A great crowd cheered Robins and sang "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow."

Robins was led to the platform and blushing to the roots of his hair made the first public speech of his life. It was a six word speech.

"Thanks; I merely did my duty," he said.

All children have an ear for noise; but when we grow up we only like it when we make it ourselves.

Seeing ourselves as others see us would do no good and only add to life's little annoyances.
